Signs To Depart, Funds To Arrive

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

The legal/political donnybrook that threatened to cripple Nebraska's highway construction program ended Monday in a tie: Federal Highway Administration, 1, the Exon administration, 1.

Gov. J. James Exon and State Engineer Thomas D. Doyle said those 42 tourist attraction signs along I-90 will be removed from highway right-of-way by next Monday.

That word came after Federal District Judge Warren Urbom denied a request for a temporary restraining order to halt a threatened cutoff of $39 million in federal highway funds if Nebraska did not remove the signs.

Won't Hold Funds

On the other side of the scorecard, Federal Highway Administrator Norbert Tiemann in a letter to Exon agreed not to withhold approximately $5 million in construction funds and another $2 million in highway safety funds for the state's failure to enact two highway safety measures during the last legislative session.

However, in one year the state might be back in the same predicament. Tiemann's letter indicated the state could still lose highway and construction funds for 1975-76, if two laws, one requiring motorcyclists to wear helmets, the other requiring ambulance drivers to be licensed, are not enacted.

In a prepared statement on Urbom's decision, Exon said, "I do not agree with the decision of the federal judge, but I do agree that he is the federal judge."

"Regrettably . . . as I announced at the start of the controversy, Nebraska has no option but to comply so that we can obtain the $39 million in highway funds this year."

Removal Directed

"With the concurrence of the attorney general, I have directed State Engineer Tom Doyle to remove the highway information signs immediately and to so advise . . . Tiemann," he said.

Doyle said in an interview he has ordered his district engineers to start removing the metal signs and posts beginning Tuesday morning. The signs, he said, could be down by Friday and at the latest by Monday.

He added that the state will not lose any of the $39 million, nor will the Aug. 22 bid-letting be delayed.

The signs, which originally cost $100,000, will be put into storage until easements outside the right-of-way can be leased to place the signs, he said.

Lessen Effectiveness

The process of getting easements will be expensive, he said, and the added distance from the highway will diminish their effectiveness. He said no decision has been reached on whether to gain easements for all 42 signs.

Exon said the removal will jeopardize the $3 million in business studies have indicated the signs generate annually.

Doyle said he was meeting with representatives with the attorney general to determine whether the state should pursue the original case filed in court.

Urbom's ruling on the restraining order, which was intended to delay the cutoff until the issues could be decided, cast a shadow over the case.

Not Likely To Prevail

"Before a plaintiff is entitled to a temporary restraining order," Urbom wrote, "it must show it is likely to prevail on the merits of the case . . . After full consideration . . . I conclude that (the state) is not likely to prevail on the merits . . ."

Urbom said there were no indications that Tiemann had overstepped his authority in withholding the highway funds.

"Accordingly, this court would be hard pressed to find . . . that the State of Nebraska ultimately would be able to show . . . that the signs should be permitted to remain in place," he said.

The signs were originally erected as part of an experiment for only the 1972 tourist season.

Hearing To Be Secret

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee voted on Monday to remain in closed session to hear testimony from witnesses in its impeachment inquiry.

The vote was 23 to 15 with all 21 Democrats and two Republicans favoring closed sessions.

Testimony from witnesses is scheduled to begin on Tuesday.

Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., a strong advocate of closed sessions, pointed out the House rules require that any testimony that might "tend to defame or degrade" any individual must be taken in closed session.

Presidential counsel or Dean Burch called the committee's decision "deplorable," saying the panel "has preserved an unblemished record of locking out the American people from its impeachment inquiry."

The motion to hear the witnesses behind closed doors was offered by Rep. Jerome R.

Waldie, D-Calif., who initially had advocated keeping all the impeachment inquiry proceedings open to the public.

The first committee member to argue to open the witness phase was Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill., who initially had supported closed hearings.

"This is a time for us to indicate the people's right to know is being acknowledged," said McClory.

Many Republicans who were switching their earlier positions in order to support open hearings said they were doing so because of leaks from the earlier closed sessions.

The two Republicans who voted with the 21 Democrats were Rep. Edward Hutchinson of Michigan, the ranking minority member, and Rep. Trent Lott of Mississippi.

The committee met in a growing atmosphere of partisanship surrounding the impeachment inquiry.

Shortly before the session

Rodino had offered a concession to Republicans by announcing he would support calling all six witnesses sought by James D. St. Clair, President Nixon's chief defense lawyer.

Rodino had rallied the Democrats last week to beat back a Republican move to commit the panel to calling all six.

Instead, the Democrats, with a 21 to 17 majority on the committee, pushed a two-tiered witness list.

A second list of five were to be interviewed and called if the staff felt their testimony were necessary. The final decision would be up to Rodino and Hutchinson.

The second list included four of St. Clair's choices: H. R. Haldeman, former White House staff chief; former Atty. Gen.

John N. Mitchell; William O. Bittman, former attorney for Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt Jr.; and Paul O'Brien, a former lawyer for the Nixon re-election committee.

Haldeman and Mitchell are under indictment in the Watergate cover-up case. Both have resisted being interviewed by the committee staff.

In other Watergate developments:

—Presidential lawyer James D. St. Clair filed a brief with the Supreme Court arguing that a president is entitled to immunity from judicial orders. St. Clair said that President Nixon is not only the head, but the embodiment, of the co-equal executive arm of government.

In his brief, special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski said President Nixon should be required to turn over material which Jaworski is seeking as evidence in the Watergate cover-up trial scheduled for September. Jaworski said, "The grand jury has already found reason to believe that crimes—involving the President—have been committed and the tape recordings have been found to be material to the guilt or innocence of defendants already indicted."

For the House impeachment inquiry, the fifth name on the backup list was Charles W. Colson, former White House special counsel. Both the Democrats and Republicans appear to have cooled on calling Colson.

On the firm list, in addition to Dean and LaRue, were Alexander P. Butterfield, the former White House aide who disclosed the existence of the taping system; Herbert W. Kalmbach, former personal attorney and political fund-raiser for the President; and Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry Petersen.

Trial Evidence Questioned

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

Defense attorneys in the Wounded Knee "non-leadership" trials that began Monday in Lincoln attempted to establish that two persons charged with entering the occupied South Dakota hamlet were arrested and searched illegally, thus challenging under the 4th Amendment the admissibility of certain evidence and testimony entered in court.

A motion was filed for a suppression hearing to determine early what evidence should be excluded, but U.S. District Court Judge Warren K. Urbom said he would delay ruling until more testimony was heard. Portions of the record could be removed later, if the motion was upheld, he said.

Jury Trial Waived

Both defendants waived jury trial, allowing Urbom to enter the final ruling in both cases.

Gregorio Jaramillo, of Neopit, Wis., and Michael Eugene Sturdevant of Denver, Colo., are charged with attempting to enter Wounded Knee on March 9, 1973, with firearms and ammunition during a civil disorder.

The charge also includes interfering with a federally protected function, the postal service, according to Government prosecutor Edward Carpenter of Rapid City, S.D., assistant U.S. attorney. He said 16 others are charged with similar or identical offenses. Jaramillo and Sturdevant face felony charges punishable by a maximum $10,000 fine or five years imprisonment or both.

Carpenter said after court he has no idea how long the trial of the pair will continue, noting that he plans to call "in excess of 20 witnesses." Defense attorney Clyde Henning of Rockville, Md., said the number of defense witnesses will depend on how many the prosecution calls and what the government tries to prove.

Trial Orderly

The trial was orderly as federal officers guarded the courtroom and building. Early Monday, an assistant U.S. attorney "approached the judge and said the AIM (American Indian Movement) security people had knives, and the judge took up the matter with defense counsel," said a spokesman for Judge Urbom.

Urbom "took up the matter with defense counsel" who later reported, "We've resolved the matter." The spokesman said "U.S. marshals, to our knowledge, were not involved."

Other defense counsels include Robert C. Heener, of Rockville, Md., and Kenneth Tilsen, attorney for the AIM leadership trials in St. Paul, Minn., with civil rights lawyers William Kunstler and Mark Lane.

All the trials stem from the 71-day AIM occupation of Wounded Knee that began Feb. 27, 1973, and ended May 8.

The first government witness, Jose Robert Benavides, a Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) policeman from Albuquerque, N.M., testified that he and his superior, BIA Police Capt. Gerald O. Jensen, apprehended Jaramillo and Sturdevant separately as they passed a federal defense perimeter, searched them and turned them over to U.S. marshals.

'Looked To Be Rifle'

Benavides said under questioning he saw Sturdevant dragging "what looked to be a rifle" from 30 to 50 yards away. Sturdevant obeyed commands to approach the BIA policemen, and Benavides said he found "five or six" 30-30 "live rounds" in the defendant's pocket, then transported him a mile to U.S. marshals.

When Benavides returned to the perimeter site between roadblocks 25 minutes later, he said he found a rifle "in a cow path" were Sturdevant was seen walking.

Benavides said he could not identify a rifle presented in court as the one he found at Wounded Knee. The policeman said under questioning by the defense that he had not marked any of the evidence confiscated in the two cases.

Jaramillo was stopped later. Benavides said, carrying "first aid medical supplies and 20 rounds of bullets in a box," among items in a plastic bag.

Benavides testified there were no signs warning where the federal perimeter was, that neither Jaramillo nor Sturdevant assaulted him or Jensen, that the defendants had done nothing suspicious to warrant arrests, and did not formally place the defendants under arrest.

Asked by defense counsel Heene whether Benavides advised Jaramillo of his "so-called Miranda rights," Benavides replied, "I don't remember." He added later, "It was obvious that he was under arrest."

Benavides said he stopped the two in the "area where we were instructed to keep people from going in and out." He said he was "looking for weapons or ammunition that might be going into Wounded Knee."

Jensen of Fort Totten, N.D., took the stand as the second government witness Monday, just before court recessed.

Carpenter, asked after court whether the government maintains the searches were legal, replied "Certainly."

Meanwhile, at the barrack housing about 40 Indians connected with the trial at Lincoln Air Park, John Thomas said Monday, "We're not having any problems with the community."

Thomas, AIM liaison with the Wounded Knee Defense-Offense Committee, said Indians are "setting up an area for the children" and still working to get the barrack in-shape.

The Lincoln Committee of Concerned People "is still supporting us as far as some of the supplies and necessities that we need," Thomas said.

Rezoning Still Nixed

City lawmakers Monday reaffirmed action taken last week killing Farm Bureau Insurance Co.'s application to build a million dollar office building near 1st and Superior.

The council reconsidered that action at the request of Councilman John Robinson, who said the company's officials had some new information to present.

But the additional testimony from John Klinker left the lawmakers unmoved and resulted in the same 4-3 vote.

Klinker said Farm Bureau's 18,000 members do not understand why the request for a change of zone from A-2 Single Family to F Restricted Commercial was denied.

Councilman Dick Baker replied, "You can tell them that one of the main reasons is that our professional planning director recommended against it."

Klinker and other Farm Bureau officials said they had the impression that the council would only approve the plan if a site was found downtown or if the company moved into The Highlands subdivision in Northwest Lincoln.

Officials said that as of last week cost of the land in The Highlands was $25,000 an acre, a price Farm Bureau could not afford. The original application was for rezoning of 16 acres. Last week, the company agreed to rezone 8.6 acres.

Councilwoman Helen Boosalis responded that the council was not forcing the firm to build either downtown or in The Highlands.

"The issue is one of good planning and zoning," she said.

Boosalis said the city has made a sizeable investment in the interstate park straddling I-180 and that construction of an office building near the park would inhibit future residential growth.

Farm Bureau officials disagreed that single family homes could be built on the land.

Joining Boosalis in voting against the proposal again Monday were Baker, Robinson and Sue Bailey.

Councilmen Steve Cook, Max Denney and Bob Sikyta again voted for the application.

NEA Planning Political Drive

(c) Washington Star-News

Chicago — The National Education Association is planning a $4 million political offensive this year to support its friends and defeat its enemies in Congress and in state offices.

A prime objective in seeking to elect what Helen D. Wise, president of the 1.5-million-member teacher organization, calls a "pro-education Congress," is passage of a federal law guaranteeing collective bargaining for teachers and other public employees.

The approximately 1,000 delegates at the NEA annual convention here are also taking preliminary steps toward endorsing a candidate for president for the first time. Delegates to the organization's convention in 1976 would vote to endorse a candidate.

The present convention is also bolstering NEA's defenses against "accountability" plans designed to measure teacher performance on the basis of students' scores on achievement tests.

Resolutions expected to be adopted this week call for a ban on the use of group intelligence and achievement tests and for opposition to testing programs that compare the performance of teachers, students or school systems.

To dramatize its campaign for a federal collective bargaining law, about 3,000 of the delegates rallied in Grant Park in support of striking teachers in the Timberlane school district in New Hampshire. The strike began Feb. 26, making it the longest of 1,109 teachers' strikes recorded since 1940.

In line with increasingly tough stances adopted by many school boards, the 104 striking teachers in Timberlane were fired and the school board is trying to have their teaching certificates revoked. The issue is now before the state's supreme court.

Gas Prices Change Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Gasoline prices changed Monday as one major oil company kicked up its wholesale and retail prices and another major company lowered its prices.

The new prices were worked out according to the Federal Energy Administration's (FEA) formula for setting maximum wholesale and retail prices based on current crude oil costs, the companies said.

Gulf Oil Corp. posted a four-cent-a-gallon increase Monday, which some service station operators said they are passing along to customers according to the FEA formula.

Standard Oil Co. of Ohio (Sohio) said it lowered its wholesale and retail prices two cents per gallon Monday.

The Sohio decrease applies to the pump price at company-owned stations in Ohio and to the wholesale price of gasoline to its subsidiaries, British Petroleum Co., Ltd., and Boron Oil Co.

Sohio's pump prices in Ohio fell to 55.8 cents a gallon for regular and lead-free gasoline and 59.8 cents a gallon for premium.

Court Told Chenault Follows Jacob's God

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Marcus Wayne Chenault, a 23-year-old black man, was ordered held Monday for grand jury action on murder charges in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Martin Luther King Sr. and a church deacon.

Chenault, of Dayton, Ohio, said during a 15-minute arraignment in City Court: "My name is Servant in Jacob Court. I'm a Hebrew. I was sent here on a purpose and it's partly accomplished."

His lawyer said that by Hebrew, Chenault meant "a black follower of the God of Jacob, as distinguished from a Jew."

He admitted carrying two pistols into Atlanta's Ebenezer Baptist Church Sunday and, when asked by an assistant district attorney if he shot anyone, replied: "I assume that I shot someone."

Judge E. T. Brock ordered him bound over to the Fulton County grand jury on two counts of murder in the deaths of Mrs. King and a church deacon, Edward Boykin, 69; and on a charge of aggravated assault in the wounding of another member of the church.

The shootings erupted during church services shortly after 11 a.m. Sunday and scattered about 500 members of the congregation in panic.

Chenault's attorney, Randy Bacote, entered pleas of no contest to all of the charges, but Brock refused to accept them and instead entered innocent pleas. Brock refused to allow bond for Chenault.

The brief arraignment took place under tight security at Atlanta police headquarters.

Chenault, dressed in a light gray suit with a blue shirt, broke into a grin as he entered the courtroom accompanied by Bacote and detectives

Bacote told newsmen after the hearing that Chenault "believes he is Jacob in person" and that "his god" sent him on a mission to Atlanta.

The mission, Bacote said, "was to confront Martin Luther King-Sr." But he added that Chenault "stated that he was not able to do that because Mr. King was seated on another side of the church."

Bacote explained that "the connotation I'm putting on 'confrontation' means he (Chenault) wanted to see him. I can't determine what he had in his mind."

He said Chenault "no longer recognizes his family in Dayton. He says he is now serving Jacob, and being a servant of Jacob he has no earthly parents."

Bacote, wearing a dark brown suit with his hair shaved close to his head, said he had not determined what line of defense he would use.

Chenault was identified as the assailant during the hearing by the Rev. Calvin Morris, who was on the pulpit when the firing began.

The only other witness was Police Sgt. Berlyn Compton, who said that when he arrived at the church, bystanders were restraining Chenault.

Compton said in an interview that despite speculation by some civil rights leaders that the slaying involved a conspiracy, "thus far there is nothing to lead us to believe he acted in concert with any other person. We are still investigating."

Guerrillas Will Stop Lebanese Operation

By United Press International
Beirut press reports said Monday that Palestinian guerrilla leaders have agreed to stop using Lebanon as a springboard for attacks against Israeli settlements.

At the same time, Israel was reported stepping up its security along the border with Jordan to avert infiltration of terrorists in the guise of peaceful summer visitors from the Arab nation.

In London, Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin expressed grave concern over the U.S. decision to help Egypt build a nuclear reactor. He said the reactor will give Egypt know-how that might enable it to use nuclear energy "not just for peaceful purposes."

Decision To Stop
Beirut's biggest circulation newspaper, An Nahar, and its French-language sister newspaper, L'Orient le Jour, said three guerrilla leaders informed Lebanese Prime Minister Takkedd in Solh Sunday night of a decision to stop infiltration into Israel from Lebanese territory.

"The Palestinian resistance has undertaken a commitment to freeze all its operations from Lebanon and to suspend infiltration across the southern frontier into Israel," the reports said.

"The meeting is considered in political circles to inaugurate a new era in Lebanese-Palestinian relations," L'Orient le Jour said.

The newspapers quoted Palestinian sources as saying the guerrillas intended instead to use commandos based inside

Israel to raid targets in the Jewish state.
Sources close to the Lebanese government expressed surprise, however, at the newspaper reports, noting that an agreement between Lebanon and the guerrilla leaders not to launch operations from Lebanese soil has been in existence since September 1972.

Israel has staged air strikes against Lebanon, reportedly causing heavy civilian casualties, in retaliation against guerrillas for attacks on Israeli civilian settlements.

Come From Lebanon
Israel has contended that the guerrillas came from Lebanon, while the Lebanese government and the guerrilla movement have maintained that the units are based inside Israel.

In reporting stepped-up security along the Jordan River, the Israeli newspaper Maariv said, "Authorized sources do not rule out the possibility that suicide squads might infiltrate by way of the (Jordan River) bridges."

N.Y. Times Summary

Chenault May Have Had Visitors

Dayton, Ohio—The authorities here have learned that Marcus Wayne Chenault, the accused killer of Mrs. Martin Luther King Sr., may have had visitors to his room at the Downtown Holiday Inn. The authorities are also investigating reports that another Dayton man was seen in Atlanta Sunday. The police in Atlanta, where the shooting occurred, have said that they thought Chenault, 23 years old, had acted alone. The Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Dayton Police have refused to comment, but hotel employees reported that they heard voices in room 813, which was occupied by Chenault.

Tragedy Especial Sacrilege

Atlanta — Churches have always been something extra special in the lives of black Americans, and nowhere more so than in the south. So black America tended to see especial sacrilege in the tragedy that occurred Sunday at the Ebenezer Baptist Church.

Scientific Seminar Quashed

Moscow — Soviet authorities successfully quashed an unofficial scientific seminar planned for nearly two months by a group of Jewish scientists who were barred from working since they applied to emigrate to Israel. More than a half-dozen of the organizers of the unauthorized seminar have been jailed in the last two weeks. Eight American and British Nobel Prize laureates supported the meeting.

Mobil Oil Indicted

New York — Mobil Oil Corp. was indicted for alleged criminal violations of New York's antitrust laws and charged with "willfully, knowingly, corruptly and unlawfully" forcing its metropolitan area gasoline dealers, under threat of the loss of their leases, to carry the company's brand of automotive accessories. At the same time, the special state grand jury reportedly has voted additional criminal indictments against other major oil companies.

Reasons For High Toll Given

Port Chester, N.Y. — Investigators said that lack of an emergency fire detection system in addition to an interior layout that forced scores of patrons to flee up a single exit stairway were the major reasons for the high death toll in Sunday morning's fire at Gulliver's Discotheque here. The cause of the fire, which killed 24 young people and injured 32 others, has not been established.

Dancer Wants To Stay

Ottawa — Mikhail Barichnikov, the Soviet dancer who left the Bolshoi Ballet Company hurriedly in Toronto after the group's last performance there Saturday night, will apply to Canadian immigration authorities for permission to remain in Canada, it was learned Monday.

Suit Lost By Hughes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A federal jury decided in favor of Robert A. Maheu Monday in his $17.3 million defamation suit against his former employer, billionaire Howard Hughes.

The amount of damages awarded to Maheu will be determined in a separate phase of the trial, scheduled to begin Oct. 8. The judge said he expects those proceedings to last at least a month.

"Naturally, I'm very pleased," Maheu said afterwards. His attorney advised him not to say anything more. Maheu was fired by Hughes in 1970.

The six-member jury deliberated about four days before reaching its verdict after hearing four months of testimony.

The case stemmed from a January 1972 telephonic news conference in which reporters asked questions of a voice said to be Hughes.

During the news conference, the voice discussed Maheu, who had been fired from his job as head of Hughes' Nevada operations.

"He's a no-good dishonest son of a bitch and he stole me blind," the voice said. "... You wouldn't think it could be possible with modern methods of bookkeeping and accounting and so forth for a thing like this to happen, but, believe me, it did, because the money is gone and he's got it."

'Excitable Kid' Speaks Out

It was John Ehrlichman or some other White House insider who at one time referred patronizingly to Lowell Weicker, the Connecticut Republican and member of the Senate Watergate Committee, as "an excitable kid," but otherwise probably an all-right guy.

The excitable kid has issued his own 146-page report giving his views of the investigation of the campaign scandals and his recommendations for political reform. The tone of the report, true to the senator's excitable image, is alarmist to the extreme.

"Several years ago many Americans were willing to silently tolerate illegal government activity against militants, terrorists or subversives as an expeditious way to circumvent the precise processes of our justice system," Weicker wrote. "Though quick, it also proved to be only a short step to using such illegal tactics against any dissenting Americans. The result was we almost lost America. Not to subversives, terrorists or extremists of the streets but to subversives, terrorists and extremists of the White House," he said.

Almost lost America? We think the excitable kid went overboard on that one.

We weren't that close to a totalitarian dictatorship.

But we can't quarrel with his recommendations for political reform or his listing of at least 370 violations of the law and the Constitution committed by President Nixon's administration and re-election committee or with his obvious indignation at the whole modus operandi of the Nixon administration throughout most of the last six years.

As a Republican, Weicker said it was difficult to say what he had to say about an administration headed by a Republican. But, he said, he was speaking as a patriot.

We agree with Weicker in that. This sorry affair is not a "get the President" or a "get the Republicans" vendetta carried out by passionately partisan Democrats. It is just that there is an overwhelming number of people in this country — Democrats, Independents and Republicans — who are repelled by the cynical and hypocritical abuses of power, laws and trust by members of an administration which sold itself to the Americans people as a team which would restore respect for law in this country.

The Shadow Of The Draft

House Minority Leader John Rhodes, R-Ariz., in Lincoln last weekend to help build optimism among Nebraska Republicans and fill their campaign coffers, was telling his audience of the pluses of the Nixon administration.

One of the things, he said, was that "we've liberated the younger generation from the shadow of the draft. Unfortunately, peace and the ending of the draft are often taken for granted."

And also unfortunately, that shadow may have to be brought back to hover over another generation of young Americans.

The words of Dwight Elliot Stone give us a tip about the problems of keeping together an all-volunteer peacetime army. Stone, who was inducted June 30th, 1973, 10 hours before the Selective Service Act expired, was the last draftee since President Abraham Lincoln instituted conscription during the Civil War.

"If they gave me about a million dollars, I'd re-enlist," said Stone, who still has one year remaining of his two-year commitment. "Other than the million dollars, no, I wouldn't re-enlist." Stone says he feels the government will have to reinstate the draft.

We think there are many young people like Stone. At a million bucks a soldier, it's going to be a mighty expensive army. The pay raise incentives now in effect to promote the volunteer army are budget-busting enough. We think the government will find the Army will have to pay even more to keep its ranks filled and its image maintained as a tough, efficient military force on the world scene.

We don't look forward to the reinstatement of the draft, but we rather ruefully predict that some form of compulsory military service looms in the future.

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Our son is 15 and has recurring trouble with blisters on his feet, especially in warm weather. All clinical tests for fungus, athlete's foot and possible infectious condition of the skin have been negative. And the blisters still come and go. Since it seems the skin on his feet is supersensitive, can you suggest anything to help him? — O.F.P.

The causes that come first to mind are "nerves," irritation of the eye as in conjunctivitis, or a refractive error (meaning you need glasses). Your eye doctor would be the one to make the diagnosis and prescribe treatment. I cannot recommend a drug to control the twitching without first knowing the underlying cause. I haven't heard of acupuncture in relation to this, either.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have read recently that dry wine is helpful for high blood pressure and diabetes. I would appreciate an answer. — V.K.

While wine has its social values, and has had them over the centuries, it is not a treatment for either diabetes or blood pressure, and I suggest that you give up reading whatever source offered you that notion.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What causes Macular degeneration? Would pernicious anemia have anything to do with it?

A deficient blood supply to the back of the eye can cause macular degeneration, and that can result from hardening of the arteries of from an untreated anemia. If you have both macular degeneration and pernicious anemia, it is vital that you keep your blood count up with regular B-12 injections.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Does homemade maple sugar or brown sugar have as much effect as cane or beet sugar has on diabetes? Or how about molasses in baking cookies or muffins? — Mrs. L.S.

The coloring and flavoring make no difference. Anyone with diabetes should stay away from everything you mentioned. They all have a high sugar content.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Why is a person's temperature 96 in the daytime and 97 in the late afternoon or evening? I am 62 and have an adequate diet and get plenty of rest. — Mrs. J. K.

The temperature ranges you mention are not unusual for your age. The higher temperature later in the day is merely the result of your daily activities.

As we grow older, bodily functions tend to slow down and the body temperature reflects this general lessening of activity. As long as you are getting the rest and sustenance you say you are, don't let the temperatures you speak of bother you.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have glaucoma but the drops I have to put in my eyes sting from one to two minutes. The doctor has changed brands several times but the stinging continues. He says I should get used to it after a while. Will this stinging do any damage to my eyes? — J.F.

It is not unusual for the drops to sting momentarily, so you aren't alone. But unless they produce redness or greater signs of irritation, the advice to continue them is correct.

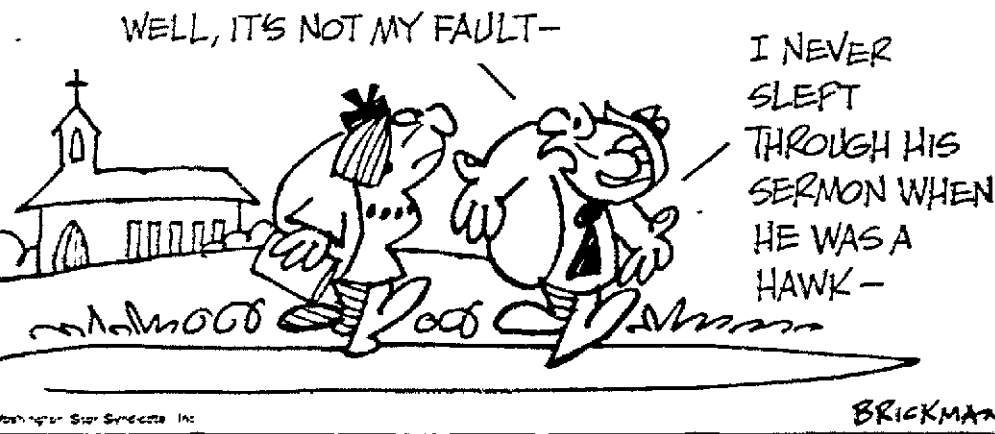

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I find myself nearly falling backward and can easily lose my balance if I allow my head to tip backward very far. I don't think it is ear trouble. Whom should I see? Radiologist, neurologist or whom? — J.K.H.

Some pinching of nerves in the neck can cause a situation such as you describe. I would say see a neurologist.

"Rest Assured, I'm Watching It All The Time"

YALTA — Eager to haunt the latest example of Dacha diplomacy, three ghosts of a previous summit gathered to discuss Yalta Two. The ghosts took the form of a pipe, a cigarette jauntily angled in a long holder, and a cigar.

CIGAR: In a jocular mood, I once wrote a bit of doggerel about this place: "From Malta to Yalta, no more let us falter." Trouble was, Franklin, you did falter a bit on the division of the spoils.

CIGARETTE: I thought we had a personal relationship that would carry us to our rendezvous with destiny. Harry liked Old Joe, too — thought he was a realist.

PIPE: I was. So is the man who lives in this Dacha today.

CIGAR: How can you say that? The way he talks about the relaxation of tensions makes him sound like a pitchman for a Turkish bath.

PIPE: Cold war was getting Soviet interests nowhere. When China turned revisionist, we needed a non-aggression pact on our western front — you cannot fight a two-front cold war.

CIGARETTE: Surely that can't be the only reason for the new, cordial attitude of the Soviet Union.

PIPE: Detente got Soviets recognition of East Germany, cost us nothing. Detente got Soviets secure European borders, cost us nothing.

WASHINGTON — President Nixon has lived by the leak, just as he has been brought low by the leak.

In his attempt to control the flow of underground information from the White House, he has employed both plumbers and leakers.

Indeed, those presidential spokesmen, who have expressed such grand moral outrage over the House impeachment leaks, are some of the best leakers in the business.

We have made a careful study of presidential leaks, which are known in the backrooms of the White House as "Nofziger Jobs," after former presidential aide Lyn Nofziger who was a master of the leak.

Not long after taking over the White House in 1969, President Nixon himself fashioned his public relations strategy in a series of eight secret memos to his staff chief, H. R. Haldeman.

In a typical memo, dated Sept. 22, 1969, the President called his aides' tactics "adequate" and "amateurish" and urged them to show more "bulldog" determination against people like Sen. Ted Kennedy, D-Mass.

As former aide Jeb Stuart Magruder has confided: "The most sophisticated student of public relations in the White House was . . . the President himself."

The President's strategy included the adroit use of the leak. He favored staffers Lyn Nofziger and Pat Buchanan, because of their excellent press contacts, to plant the stories the White CIGAR: You would approve, then, of the new Soviet style of leadership?

PIPE: Not my style, but gets results. Leonid lets a couple ballet dancers out, gets big headlines, but crushes internal dissent nearly as well as I did.

CIGAR: But your man comes to Yalta with grave weaknesses. The Soviet economic system has proven to be no match for the West's. Your man is bogged down in central planning and the bureaucracy is musclebound.

The communist system is an inefficiency inside a batch-up wrapped in an alibi. That's why your man is desperate for Western technology. And for Western capital to develop resources to sell to Western markets.

PIPE: We are willing for you to help us compete so long as you do not ask us to change the system that makes it impossible for us to compete.

CIGAR: Unless the Soviet Union demonstrates its sincerity by agreeing to limit the warheads of MIRV — a detestable acronym, by the way, nothing is named right any more — if I were the American President, I wouldn't give the Russians a thing.

CIGARETTE: As another quid pro quo, I'd insist — again and again and again — on an easing of Soviet immigration policy. Scoop is a grand fellow, isn't he? On the other hand, I like old Henry — he's a realist. PIPE: Nixon brings his own weakness to Yalta. Who is he to teach us bear-hugs? If he drank every toast he proposed to "personal relationships," he would never sober up — Foreign affairs is not love affairs.

CIGARETTE: By making himself the indispensable man, he makes it harder for Congress to dispense with him. Ah, but your man is going along with him every step of the way — Why is the general secretary helping the President look so good on American television?

PIPE: We like to deal with the people we know. You died and Truman started the cold war. Kennedy was killed and Johnson started the Vietnam war. We know this American President, we both have a stake in the same policy, and we don't know anybody else in your country who can drag the right-wing warmongers along.

CIGAR: Popycock. The value of young Whatsisname, Ike's vice president, is that he understands the flow of history — even if he never understood that the making of tape recordings impedes the writing of history. This President seizes the moment to play one power center against another, and makes peace when he sounds most belligerent —

CIGARETTE: A grand design.

CIGAR: He is the East's symbol of the continuity of change and the Western key to "unlocking the Iron Curtain." If he doesn't cave in — sorry, Franklin — with some unwritten understanding on arms control in a wrong-headed assumption that it would save his political skin, then he will not only survive, but history will speak of him, if I may say so, in the same breath as me. But hark — the glow-worm shows the matin to be near . . .

The cigarette, the cigar and the pipe dissolved in the Crimean dawn, as the living leaders of the world's superpowers, humming, "Call Me Irresponsible," as they entered, took their places at the haunted table to begin Yalta II.

House wanted sneaked out.

The President's favorite target was always Sen. Kennedy. In an attempt to link Kennedy with Hanoi, for example, the President instructed Haldeman:

"Buchanan's prudent primary group might get a major mailing out to editors and columnists in Massachusetts and perhaps even nationally, just setting forth the Hanoi quote . . . Buchanan also should be able to get a columnist or two — and Nofziger could help in this respect — to pick up this line."

Another time, Magruder planted an innocent picture of Kennedy and a beautiful woman, photographed on the streets of Rome, in a national scandal sheet. "It was later picked up by one of the news magazines," Magruder has confessed.

Former White House special investigator Jack Caulfield has also told senators behind closed doors how he tried to float out a false story that the Kennedy family foundation had financed a newspaper series criticizing presidential pal Bebe Rebozo.

Caulfield told the senators that he recommended "an oblique Nofziger, an immediate drop vis-a-vis the Kennedys . . ."

The bewildered Senate Watergate staff, uninitiated in the backroom lingo of the White House, didn't understand. "What did that mean?" Caulfield was asked.

He explained painstakingly: "Well, what I meant was that consideration be given to have Lyn Nofziger speak with friends that he had in the media (about) whether or not the Newsday article was financed by the Kennedy Foundation."

Nofziger told us he did not leak the story. But someone did, since it was circulating around Washington at the time.

As another "Nofziger Job,"

Caulfield testified in secret that he was asked to run "a name-check with the FBI" on moviemaker Emile De Antonio, who produced an anti-Nixon movie called "Millhouse: A White Comedy."

Caulfield got the obliging FBI to give him a summary of De Antonio's file, including raw data. Afterward, Caulfield reported jubilantly to his superiors: "If (Democratic national chairman Larry) O'Brien is stupid enough to get behind (the film), we can, armed with the Bureau's information, do a Nofziger Job on De Antonio and O'Brien."

Again, a committee investigator wanted to know: "What do you mean . . . a Nofziger Job?"

"What I mean," again recounted Caulfield, "is let him, Lyn Nofziger, whose talents in that area were much greater than anyone else around the White House . . . make that known to his contacts in the media."

This particular "Nofziger Job," however, was aborted — possibly because the White House didn't want to advertise the movie even with unfavorable publicity.

At the same time that President Nixon made skillful use of leaks to smear his political foes, he went to elaborate, even illegal lengths to stop leaks about himself. He was a man haunted by dark secrets which he feared might leak out and drive him from public office.

So he formed the para-police plumbers unit, which was supposed to plug up unauthorized leaks. Another ex-White House leaker, Charles Colson, has acknowledged in his courtroom confession that the plumbers broke into the offices of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, however, not to plug a leak but to get dirt against Ellsberg to leak out.

Ironically, most of the White House horrors, which have by now effectively destroyed the presidency of Richard Nixon, were committed in reaction to press leaks in an attempt to stop them.

Footnote: In a future column we will describe more of the secret White House leaks.

Some Don't Deserve Respect

By ROBERT PETERSON

It's almost heresy to suggest that older parents sometimes do not deserve love and respect from their children. Most of us were fortunate in having admirable mothers and fathers who showered us with love, and whom we shower with love in return.

But others have been less fortunate. We occasionally hear from children whose stories about how they were treated as youngsters would curl your hair. You hear of drunken mothers who neglected their children, and of vicious fathers who beat and abused their offspring until there was no hope of fostering anything approaching parental love.

You also hear of subtler forms of cruelty, where parents are mean and sharply critical, and make no effort to radiate affection and goodwill toward grown children.

A 42-year-old woman writes that she's happily married and the mother of four children, but can attribute none of her present contentment to her mother:

"My mother has always been a mean, narrow-minded person, given to self-righteousness and criticism. As I look back on my life I can't recall a single period when she radiated anything approaching motherly love toward me. Why should she be treated with respect today?"

"I am blessed with a wonderfully good, kind husband, but since he's not in the same high-income bracket as some of our neighbors, Mother treats him with contempt. When she'd come over she'd say things such as, 'Why didn't you go to college?' or 'Why don't you have more ambition?' or 'Why can't you buy your wife a better home?'"

"One day when she was berating him I noticed tears come to his eyes and he said quietly that he guessed the family would be better off with his life insurance than with him.

"That was the last straw. I went up to my mother, grabbed her by the arm and said, 'Get out of this house and never come back.' She left and we haven't seen her for two years. Thank God. Now we have peace and love and my only regret is that I didn't tell her off 20 years ago."

"Don't tell me to respect her, just because she brought me into this world. She's told me plenty of times I was just an accident and that she never really wanted any children."

"I might be willing to forgive her for the unhappy childhood years she gave me, but until she asks for it and shows some genuine remorse for her innate meanness I don't want to see her."

It's easy to sympathize with this daughter. The mother she describes is hardly the kind of person we envision when we hear the word "mother" with its overtones of gentleness and understanding.

It's probably true that such parents don't deserve much respect. But fortunately, these sad souls represent but a tiny fraction of all mothers and fathers.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SIDNEY OMARR

Forecast For Tuesday

Capricorn has a long memory. These persons seldom forget — and usually their memories shape their attitudes and actions. A setback can act as a tonic, causing Capricorn to "rudge" onward and upward, vowing to eventually succeed. A good turn can cause the native to repay and repay, showing gratitude and appreciation beyond normal expectations. Capricorn, more than most persons, needs an outlet, a medium for self-expression, be it writing or painting or sky diving. The Capricorn mark, for better or worse, is to be made — that is the way it is and there is little likelihood of changing it.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Good news is awaiting you. Journey can correct past mistakes. Catch up on correspondence. Open lines of communication. Take nothing for granted. Others tend to misquote you. Set record straight. Your philosophy may have to be revised.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Study Aries message for valid hint. Do some personal investigating. Refuse to be satisfied merely to know something happened; find out why it occurred. Gemini, Virgo persons figure in important ways. Friendly tip can bring financial gain.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Patient diplomacy is key to success. You can improve standing and lifestyle. Recognition for efforts will materialize. Domestic situation becomes more harmonious as result. If single, talk of marriage dominates.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Select with care. Be sure your view is not distorted. Know difference between illusion and reality. Someone wants something for nothing — and you could be the target. Act accordingly. Keep guard in place. Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Your ability to create and dramatize surges to forefront. Accept change, ride with tide. Emotional responses are emphasized. Romance is featured. If married, you rediscover mate. If single, you could find future mate.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Pace slows — this is but temporary. Know it and don't panic. Moderation now is your ally. Finish rather than begin — review situation. You require better means of distribution. Aries, Libra persons are in picture.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Bring forth creative resources, express ideas. Leo, Aquarius could be involved. Avoid scattering forces. Relatives, neighbors may be asking you questions which take time and waste efforts. Know it and know when to draw line.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You receive benefit of doubts, you gain ally who helps you adjust assets and debts

CANCER, Capricorn persons figure prominently. You benefit directly from financial decision. Know it and realize you can deal from position of strength. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You are given a choice: choose quality. It is not necessary to settle for second-best. Read Scorpio message. Cycle is such that circumstances favor your efforts. Continue to take initiative. New contacts develop into meaningful relationships.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Some restrictions are for your own benefit; know it and work with material available. Aquarius, Leo and Scorpio figure in key ways. Accent is on hospitals, institutions, special groups and organizations. There is red tape but you will overcome.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Emphasis is on recreating harmonious atmosphere following money disagreement. Friend or lover is involved. Find out why; examine motive of one who apparently shattered promise. You could be surprised — and enlightened.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You may be expecting too much, too soon. Key now is ingratiate yourself with one in authority. You can do so without abandoning principles. Once you instill confidence, way will be cleared for personal advancement. You will understand.

Stores Honored For Recycling

Richman Gordman stores, including the Lincoln store, were among those given certificates of appreciation Friday from the Governor's Council to Keep Nebraska Beautiful.

The name was omitted from the list of Lincoln organizations recognized because the list of winners supplied by the council indicated only the Omaha Richman Gordman stores as winners.

Mrs. Les Anderson of Omaha, council president, explained that all Richman Gordman stores in the state were recognized for installing baling equipment to recycle paper and cardboard.

"Now is the time to buy a furnace?"

That's right. And we know it's the last thing you want to think about now. But you should order that furnace now or you could get left out in the cold during the fall rush.

And make sure you replace your gas furnace with another gas furnace. Natural gas will heat two homes with the same amount of energy it takes to heat one home electrically. That's because it takes no other forms of energy to produce gas, and gas comes to your home without losing a lot of its "punch" on the way.

Save energy and money with a gas furnace. Call your heating dealer now. Strike while the iron is hot.

Beatrice Council Ups Water Rates

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau
Beatrice — A hike in water rates was approved by the city council Monday night, effective Aug. 1.

Since the revised schedule had been under study for several weeks, it precipitated a minimum of discussion prior to a rules suspension and three readings. For most users the increase will amount to approximately 15%.

Schedule Amended
Prior to passage, the measure was amended to increase the rate on private sprinkler systems 15% and fire hydrants 25%. Although higher than present rates, both were revised downward from figures previously proposed.

In other action, the council decided to request more information before paying a $43,022 claim for a sanitary sewer study. The project involved several weeks' work by consulting engineers Hoskins-Western-Sonderregger of Lincoln.

Lloyd Hubbs, acting board of public works manager, said an open end contract was signed with the firm last October and that a preliminary estimate on the work was $20,000. Recently appointed, he said he and his board would also like more details on the building.

He added that the study, primarily to locate leakage in the sanitary sewer system, is one of two required by the Environmental Protection Agency before the city can receive federal aid on a proposed $2.5 million sewage disposal plant.

'Deep Throat' Clears Law In Council Bluffs

Council Bluffs, Iowa (AP) — City and county attorneys said Monday there is no law against a Council Bluffs theater showing the controversial film "Deep Throat," as long as minors are not allowed to attend.

Pottawattamie County Atty. Lyle Rodenburg said the state's new obscenity law defines obscenity and prohibits minors from viewing obscene movies, books or other material. That law takes precedence over any city ordinance, he said.

A Council Bluffs theater has announced it will begin a showing of the film Thursday. "Deep Throat" was shown in Omaha in May, 1973. During that showing the manager of the theater was arrested and the film confiscated.

That case is now awaiting appeal in the Nebraska Supreme Court.

Eight Contractors Halt Union Workers' Work

Omaha (AP) — Eight sheet metal and air conditioning contractors in the Omaha area halted work for their union employees Monday, charging that the union has refused to negotiate a contract.

Sam Jensen, attorney for the contractors, said the firm's contracts with the Sheet Metal Workers International Association Local 3, expired Sunday.

David Weinberg, attorney for the workers, said the union would file a complaint with the National Labor Relations Board charging the contractors with

The second study is anticipated to cost some $200,000.

Permit Required
The council also discussed safety aspects of a helicopter service which has started flying Lincoln pathologists to two local hospitals. When it was noted that a heliport requires a special use permit, two representatives of the service agreed to comply.

The craft have been landing in different locations near the Lutheran Hospital.

The possibility of a fenced-off hard surfaced landing area was discussed. Representatives Jim Hampton and Dan Underwood pointed out, however, Beatrice is the only city among the 30 they are serving which requires such a permit.

The council also:
—Approved Class C liquor license to IOM, Inc. at 513 Court St. for "Velvet Cellar" club.
—Referred to property committee three bids on property on 615 Caldwell, apparent high $1,051 from Tony Meints.

—Authorized Board of Public Works purchase of truck mounted line lift from ObeCo of Omaha for $23,405, lowest of four bids.

—Suspended rules and passed ordinance approving repeal of County Club Estates subdivision.

—Placed on first reading ordinance for mandatory retirement of city employees at age 65.

—Approved operation of bear garden on Fourth of July only (3-8 p.m.) by Broken Arrow contingent on payment of $17.50 fee.

—Reappointed Mrs. Ila Kuhn to housing authority for five-year term on a 5-3 vote.

NPPD Employee Contacts Line, Listed Critical

Kearney (AP) — Quick action by a number of persons Monday night was apparently responsible for saving the life of a NPPD employee who came in contact with high voltage lines while on the job here.

The manager of NPPD in Kearney, Marvin Hill, said 38-year-old Bill Merryman was working on a power line when he apparently came in contact with the line. His daughter, who was near a company truck, noticed Merryman leaning back against his safety belt and immediately called for help on the truck's radio.

Another NPPD employee rushed to the scene and took Merryman down from the pole as two members of the Kearney volunteer fire department arrived on the scene.

Don Olson and Jim Harvey administered artificial respiration and were successful in restoring Merryman's breathing. Merryman had no signs of life when the pair arrived, said a Kearney fire official.

Many Couples Drop Partner Swapping Game

Swinging, billed as a boost to marriage boredom, was not the answer for every couple who tried it on for size.

A questionnaire survey of 473 marriage counselors showed that the rate of dropouts from the swinging scene is increasing. The counselors were able to identify a total of 1,175 couples who dropped out according to Duane Denfeld, an assistant professor of sociology at the University of Connecticut, who conducted the survey.

And it was the wife, in 54% of the cases, who initiated the decision to chuck mate-swapping, Denfeld found. They were usually disgusted or revolted, according to the survey summarized in "Human Behavior," a psychological magazine.

A frequent reason given by the husbands, who expressed the desire to end swinging in 34% of the cases, was his wife's unexpected popularity or her "endurance qualities."

Mutual agreement ended swapping in 10% of the cases.

Denfeld disputes the argument in behalf of swapping which says swinging not only bestows sexual equality on women but once wives begin participating they are likely to be more enthusiastic than their men.

"Rather than being equalitarian, swinging is more likely a way for some of the men to have sexual variety," he said.

"In such cases, the double standard and exploitation of women is very much a part of the arrangement."

Couples that stray together stay together — the argument for swapping was damaged by the statistics. At least 29 couples have become divorced or separated since beginning swinging.

Commenting on the number of reports that indicate "consensual exchange of partners can be accomplished without feelings of guilt and without threatening the marriage," Denfeld said he suspects many researchers have brought more missionary zeal than scientific detachment to their work.

Swingers argue that lying and cheating are the damaging aspects of extramarital sex and that if these are removed, nonemotional extramarital sex can be beneficial to the marriage.

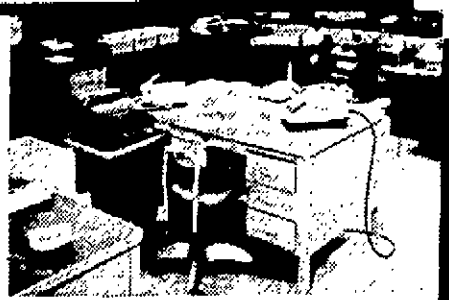

This may be so for the successful swinger, said Denfeld, but no one knows the number of failures and the trauma suffered.

Some of the most frequently given reasons for dropping out of the mate-swapping action include:

- Jealousy over a spouse's swap partner (104 couples)
- Emotional attachment to new partners got in way of good marital relationships at home (53 couples)
- Boredom or loss of interest (49 couples)
- Swinging did not live up to expectations (32 couples)
- Wife's ability "to take it." (29 couples)
- Fear of discovery by children or community (15 couples).

Change Snack Foods

The adult who snacks as he sits in front of the TV set every evening may find he's putting on unwanted weight. He should switch to snack foods that are lower in calories, yet provide nutrients. Raw vegetables like carrots, cauliflower, green pepper, radishes, celery, and small cherry tomatoes are ideal. For a beverage, try iced tea or coffee. They contribute no nutrients, but practically no calories either.

If MUZAK were here, this chair would be filled EVERYDAY!

A bored employee will use any reason to stay off the job, and just nine days absenteeism in a year can cost you $126 per employee, based on the minimum wage scale. Multiply that by the number of people you employ and the cost can be staggering. Few businesses today, large or small, can afford profit erosion like this. More and more now subscribe to the MUZAK service. Independent studies show that MUZAK increases alertness and vigilance.

The MUZAK service is different from mere background music. Far different! For years, scientists studied the ebb and flow of employee efficiency.

They found it flows in a cyclic curve. By studying this curve and the employee moods underlying it, MUZAK specialists were able to discover, through exacting tests, just what kind of music would best stimulate the employee at the times of day when efficiency is lowest.

Thus, Music by MUZAK is psychologically selected, arranged, recorded and programmed to vary throughout the day and fit the employee efficiency curve. There is an answer to profit erosion, and MUZAK has it.

Opening lead - queen of clubs.

How are percentage plays determined? Most books on play tell you how to deal with certain recurring combinations of cards but, since no book can deal with every possible combination, it is highly desirable to know the methods used to solve percentage problems.

South is in four hearts and three rounds of clubs are led, declarer ruffing the third round. He crosses to dummy's only entry, the king of diamonds, and leads a trump on which East plays the seven.

South is now at the crossroads of the hand. Should he play the jack or the king? In the actual hand the king is the only winning play, since it captures the queen, but that in itself doesn't prove the king is the right play in the long run. It is obviously easier to make the winning play when you see all four hands.

In attempting to solve such a problem, it is best to start by eliminating those combinations where it makes no difference what you play. Thus, if West has the A-Q, the singleton eight, the singleton ace, or a void of hearts, it doesn't matter what South does, for he fails in his mission in all those cases.

The only situations that matter are those where West has the A-8 or Q-8 — in which event tossing a coin is as good a solution as any — and those situations where West has a singleton honor.

It is this latter possibility that makes the king the right play. Since the singleton ace or queen occur equally often, the king will be the winning play half the time, and can never be the losing play because, if West has the singleton ace, not even a doctor can help.

Credit, Rape, Minimum Wage On WCC Agenda For Monday

Donna Polk, representative for the State Department of Labor, will discuss women and credit in Nebraska and the ramifications of the new minimum wage law, and a newly-formed coalition will report on the growing incidence of rape in Lincoln at the Women's Communication Center (WCC) meeting Monday.

A coalition representative will report on the group's activities and give suggestions for involvement of women's organizations in rape information services during the 7:30 meeting at the YWCA, 1432 N St. Plans will also be discussed for Women's Equality Day planned for August 24 at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education, and a WCC-sponsored outstate workshop on life-planning, career goals and general problems of women and employment, scheduled for August 31 at Nebraska Western University in Scottsbluff.

Meetings of WCC, a coalition of more than 20 state and local women's organizations, are open to the public.

Let Them Choose

Have a variety of nutritious foods ready-to-eat and handy when children come home from school. Let them choose from foods like: small sandwiches, fruit or juice, milk, cheese, peanut butter, raw carrots, radishes, or other vegetables, raisins, dried fruit, ice cream, pudding, cookies. They may come up with some "wild" combinations, but that can add to their enjoyment of nutritious foods.

Order Your Newspaper Vacation-Pak Before You Go

If you're going on vacation for two days or two weeks, order VACATION PAK. While you're away, your newspaper carrier will save your copies of the newspaper at his home. When you return he'll deliver them in a handy Vacation Pak bag and resume home delivery the same day. At collection time you simply pay the regular 4-week rate.

'Where Parents Do Play An Active Role'

FREE PLAY... for youngsters at Kiddie Land, Inc.

By NANCY HICKS
Star Women's Editor

Parent input, parent interest and involvement through advisory councils is an idea bandied about day care circles in recent years.

Parents and professionals at a local day care center and nursery school have gone a step beyond the advisory council stage. Within the next few weeks the Kiddie Land day care center and nursery school will be incorporated as a non profit organization with a parent board of directors running the show.

A combination of financial need and a firm belief in parental involvement led to the innovative structure, and it was the parents who initiated the changes.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Mohr have been the child care route. A church affiliated day care center dwelt too much on the religious for their liking; a private sitter provided merely custodial care; and visits to local private day care centers showed a regimented program and environment.

There was one exception — Kiddie Land. Here they saw no regimentation or custodial care. The staff, the program, the atmosphere was just what they wanted for their two children, Danielle, 3, and Philip, 4.

So early this year, when it looked like financial problems might force director-owner, Dick Segal, to sell the center, the Mohrs, already active in the parent advisory council, were among the first parents to explore avenues for keeping the center in Segal's hands.

The solution the parents came up with involved parental investment in the center.

Though not legally a co-op, the new non-profit corporation, to be named Kiddie Land, Inc., will be based on the co-op principle of receiving certain benefits for a membership fee.

Under the plan parents of children enrolled in the center can buy a $50 membership which allows them a discount day care rate and a vote in the corporation decision. The memberships are refundable when the children no longer attend Kiddie Land.

Parents may still enroll children in the center without purchasing memberships, but they will pay the normal day care rates and will have no voting rights.

The plan has already helped the center financially. Financial concern may have been the original impetus behind the membership plan, but the main idea of the new non-profit corporation is parent control... "to have a center where the parents do play an active role," explained Segal.

The parents too feel strongly that parent control of the day care center's policies is good. They also feel strongly that Segal, with a background as a speech clinician and a more than two-year history of running an excellent facility, should continue to direct the program, according to Mohr.

"We're going to be able to preserve what we all consider to be a good day care center, and as parents we will have a very direct and active voice in the care of our children while we are away from them during the day," said Mohr.

The center, which currently cares for more than 40 children from 2 to 11 years of age, runs a separate nursery school program in the winter and provides after school care for young grade schoolers.

It has a staff/child ratio of one to five, meeting federal requirements, and like all state licensed agencies, provides an educational program for the children.

Spock—'Pied Piper Of America'

"... it bothers me to be so much misunderstood, to be called an undoer, a corrupter of youth... because it leads to the misuse of the kind of advice I have to offer."

New York — He has been called the "Pied Piper who led North American children and parents astray," a "Corrupter" of children, a "major oppressor" of women, and the "man who helped raise a generation of brats."

Once a revered household word, Dr. Spock has now become something of a dirty name.

"I have become a marvelous scapegoat," declared Dr. Benjamin H. Spock, author of the 1946 pediatric classic, "Baby and Child Care," and whose latest book is "Raising Children in Difficult Times," the serialization of which begins tomorrow.

"It really does bother me underneath," Spock said in a recent interview in his 11th-floor apartment in Manhattan's East 80s.

"I was taught as a child a good deal of self-discipline and not to show my feelings, but it bothers me to be so much misunderstood, to be called an undoer, a corrupter of youth."

"It bothers me because it leads to the misuse of the kind of advice I have to offer. That is why I am so upset."

Spock's anti-Vietnam activities — which resulted in an indictment, conviction and ultimately exoneration by an appeals court of a federal charge of aiding and abetting draft resistance — and some "misinterpretations of his recent thoughts on child care contributed primarily to his image reversal."

Time was, Spock recalls, when he was recognized on the street, it was always with a smile and respectful "Hello, Dr. Spock."

Nowadays, he is just as likely to meet up with people who think he's the "devil incarnate," he says, and he gets many angry letters from women who blame him for the "loose living" and "lack of morals" of the younger generation.

Despite all, Spock, who was 71 on May 3, remains the visual image of everyone's favorite family doctor. At 6 feet 4 inches, balding and with slightly curling white hair, he is an imposing, kindly-faced figure with a booming but not overpowering voice, an easy laugh and a confidence-instilling manner that would set well at bedside.

It all began, Spock says, when he became active in the antiwar movement after his retirement in 1967, and was promptly attacked by Norman Vincent Peal Jr. whom Spock calls "Nixon's pastor in New York," for encouraging a lack of discipline among young people.

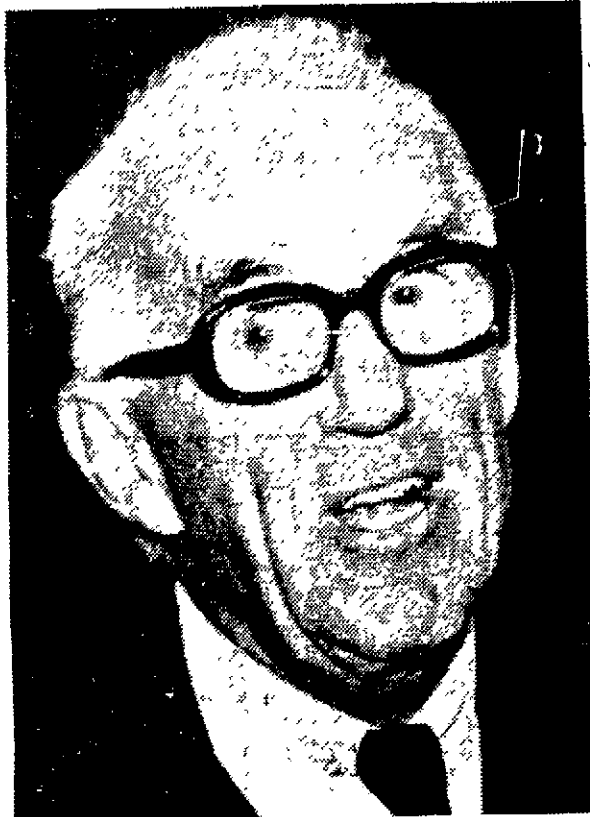

That cudgel was quickly snatched up by then Vice President Spiro Agnew, who invoked Spock's name regularly and irreverently during the 1970 congressional campaign.

"Now," Spock said with satisfaction. "I like to remind people of what has happened to Spiro Agnew."

The latest baby-raising brouhaha arose after a February, 1974, magazine article in which Spock wrote a "deluge" of advice by experts, including himself, often resulted in making parents afraid of their own children.

Some parents, Spock said, "turn to jelly" for fear they won't be loved or respected enough by their children if they invoke discipline, but Spock said they should be more firm.

That was "misunderstood" as a 180-degree turnaround from liberal to reactionary in his philosophy. Spock said, and he is still getting letters asking why.

"In trying to get through this thorny business of what is permissive and what is strictness, what I stand for is parental respect for children and children's respect for parents. We really don't have enough of either," Spock said.

His original baby manual was written at a time when strictness and rigid schedules were the order of the day. As a trained psychiatrist, Spock introduced the concept of flexibility — particularly with regard to feeding schedules and toilet training.

"But I was always an advocate of firm parental leadership," he said. He was horrified to discover that many parents interpreted his advice in such a way that the infant became a "tyrant" and the "self-demand" become the popular child-raising concept.

"I never meant babies should be allowed to stay up all night, just because they seem to want to," Spock said.

Children are happier and more well-adjusted if parents establish definite "limits" without "overpowering" them, Spock adds.

"If a parent leans over backward to avoid correcting a child, the child will keep pushing the limits. The more they are compelled to push the limits, the more the child senses his own inexperience and insecurity. When the parent reaches the breaking point and flies into a rage, the child will stop provoking. He has only been asking 'Won't somebody control me?' The child who finds no limits is terrified."

Don't Hesitate To Ask Doctor Questions

dear

it does not necessarily follow that all the facts concerning Herpes 2 apply to you. If your doctor is not investigating the new developments in the study of Herpes 2, find one who is, and make an appointment for two examinations (one for you and one for your boyfriend.) And don't hesitate to ask the doctor any and all questions concerning this disease.

DEAR ABBY: A wife wrote to say she had found a pair of nylon panties in her husband's pickup truck, and you jumped to the conclusion that some gal friend had left them there.

You overlooked something, Abby. Those panties could have been her husband's!

There are lots of men who like the feel of smooth, soft undies next to their bodies. And don't get the idea that they aren't all men because they are. I know. I've been on the police force for 16 years, and before that I was with the U.S. Marines, and I'm one of those men. I'm also husband and father of six.

So, Dear Abby, did you ever consider the possibility that there was no lady in the picture? WEAR PANTIES (WHEN I GET THE CHANCE)

DEAR WEARS: No, I didn't. But you wouldn't believe the number of your "brothers" who wrote to suggest it.

DEAR ABBY: For years I have wanted to trace my family as far back as possible, but I don't know where to begin. My forebears came from Ireland. Do you know of any agency in the United States or in Ireland with whom I could communicate to inquire?

HOPEFUL IN BOSTON
DEAR HOPEFUL: Call yours "the luck of the Irish" — I think I can help you. My column appears in the Sunday News, Northern Ireland's largest circulating Sunday newspaper, and one of my colleagues there specializes in tracing Irish family histories. The information you seek is available for a small fee. Write to: Family Tracing Services, 33 North Circular Rd., Belfast 15, Ireland.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 33-year-old happily married woman. I used to have a beautiful figure (in high school I was 32-35-36.) After nursing three babies, I lost my bust. Now

I have to wear a padded bra to look presentable. Nobody except my husband and a few very close friends know what I'm really like.

I wanted so much to be firm and filled out again that I made an appointment with a plastic surgeon. He explained all about silicone implants, and I can hardly wait to have it done, but something is holding me back.

Would such an operation be considered deceitful, and therefore sinful in the eyes of the Lord?

HOLDING OFF
DEAR HOLDING: Your clergyman can tell you what the ruling in your church is concerning reconstructive plastic surgery, so ask him to "fill you in" before you ask the doctor to "fill you out!"

8 ways to save money on air conditioning.

1 Set thermostat no lower than necessary for comfort — 78 degrees is recommended. In the average 1,200 square foot home, you'll save as much as $25 during the air conditioning season by setting your thermostat at 78 rather than 73 degrees.

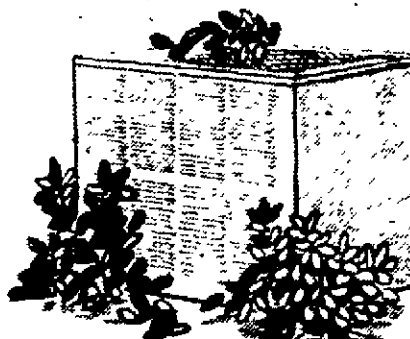

2 Replace disposable filters or clean permanent type filters at least once a month. Clogged filters make your air conditioner work harder and use more electricity.

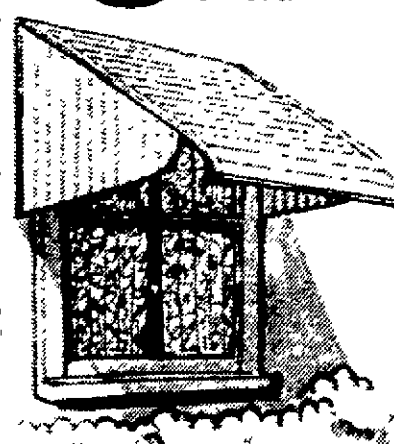

3 Provide for adequate ventilation in your attic with vents that will exhaust heat and prevent heat buildup from radiating through the ceiling into your living areas.

4 See that the ceilings and walls of your home are properly insulated and that doors and windows are weatherstripped. A minimum of 6 inches of insulation in attics and 3 1/2 inches in outside walls is recommended.

5 Keep the outdoor unit free of grass or other obstructions that might prevent proper air circulation.

6 Keep windows and fireplace dampers closed to prevent the loss of cool air and the infiltration of hot air.

7 Shade windows from direct sunlight with awnings, blinds or draperies — this will reduce the amount of electricity your unit will use.

8 Leave the fan of your air conditioner on constantly. Air circulation reduces the need for cooling.

Remember...electricity is valuable. Please don't waste it.

Reporters 'Locusts'; Judge Closes Court

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Calling news reporters "a bunch of locusts," District Court Judge Preston Dial closed off his courtroom Monday where eight potential jurors were secretly chosen in the mass murders trial of Elmer Wayne Henley Jr., 18.

Henley is charged with six of the 27 sex-torture slayings discovered in Houston last August. The trial was moved here — 200 miles west — on a change of venue motion by defense lawyers.

When jury selection began Monday morning, Judge Dial ordered newsmen and spectators from the courtroom, saying he didn't want to "take a chance with the jury panel." Before a session with lawyers from protesting news organizations, Dial said Monday afternoon, "I'm just not going to let the jury get contaminated. These guys (newsmen) are like a bunch of locusts."

The judge also barred Henley's mother, Mary, 35, and brother, Paul, 17.

The eight potential jurors eventually will compose a panel of 32 persons, 20 of whom will be eliminated by defense and state attorneys.

Before closing the trial to everyone but the defendant, lawyers and court attendants, Dial ordered Henley, lawyers for both sides and all witnesses not to speak to the news media.

Mildred Voekel, a court clerk, sent by the judge to report on what was happening in the closed courtroom, told reporters that Henley's main attorney, Will Gray of Houston, was protesting vigorously the exclusion of the public from the court.

At the end of Monday's closed session, lawyers representing The Associated Press, The San Antonio Express-News, the San Antonio Light and United Press International met privately with Judge Dial about his ruling to exclude the news media.

Before going behind closed doors Dial told news media lawyers: "I know I am not being unreasonable. If you want to do something else, go right ahead. It will not bother me at all."

Two attorneys, Bernard Ladon and Ferd Meyer, talked with Dial then announced they will file a suit Tuesday.

The lawyers said their motion will ask Dial to rescind or modify his order, at the same time asking for jury selection to be stopped. That failing, the attorneys said, an appeal will be made immediately to the Texas Supreme Court to force Dial to open the court to the public.

The complaining news organizations issued a statement saying the U.S. Supreme Court has repeatedly ruled courtrooms to be public property.

Nurse Heads Home

Rome (UPI) — American missionary nurse Deborah Dortschbach, returning home after 26 days as a captive of Ethiopian separatist guerrillas who killed a woman companion, said Monday she would return to Ethiopia despite her ordeal.

"I spent those days thinking to God, thinking of my (unborn) baby and talking to people to get to know them," the six-month pregnant nurse said on arrival here from the Eritrean provincial capital of Asmara.

"Now I will take a period of rest and be my own nurse."

Mrs. Dortschbach's husband, Karl, who accompanied her on the flight, said he had always trusted in divine help and hoped for her release.

Aluminum Prices Going Up

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Two of the nation's largest aluminum companies announced Monday they would increase prices and a third producer indicated a hike might be in the offing.

Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Corp. said a 7.5 per cent boost in the cost of ingot, the raw metal from which aluminum products are made, would take effect in the United States on Aug. 1. The jump will be from 33.5 to 36 cents a pound.

Prices in foreign markets will increase from 36 cents to 39 cents effective immediately.

A spokesman for Kaiser, the nation's third largest aluminum producer, said the ingot price increase will be reflected in equal or greater increases in most of its product lines, such as sheet and plate.

Aluminum Company of America, which said Friday it would raise its prices, disclosed Monday its price hike would average 7 per cent on about half its mill products. The boost by Alcoa, the nation's largest producer, took effect Monday and did not include the cost of ingot.

A spokesman for Reynolds Metals Co. in Richmond, Va., said only that the firm may have an announcement on price increases "in a few days," but refused further comment. Reynolds is the second-largest producer.

The impact of the price hikes will be felt by just about every industry, but especially in the building, electrical and automobile industries, an Alcoa spokesman said.

The Kaiser spokesman said the price boosts resulted from substantially increased costs for raw materials, power, fuel, transportation, wages and all raw materials.

School's Janitor Will Be Teacher

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Lavrin Cherko has been a school janitor for the past seven years. For 14 years before that he was a packinghouse worker.

Next fall, he will be a lecturer in modern languages at Creighton University here.

Now 60, Cherko was last behind a teacher's desk in 1941 in his native Ukraine where he taught geography. At Creighton, he will teach Russian, one of four languages he speaks with ease.

He wanted to resume teaching earlier but said authorities in Russia would not provide his educational credentials.

Lavrin Cherko AP

"I went to Congressman (Glenn) Cunningham who interceded with the State Department for me," Cherko said. "They wrote a letter. The Russians replied they had no record of my name."

Cherko said this is common treatment of defectors and emigrants from the Soviet Union. "Some Jewish emigrants," he said, "are required to pay large sums of money to get their degrees and transcripts."

Cherko left Kharkov in the Ukraine in 1943 when it was occupied by Germany. He married in Germany and came to the United States in 1951.

He worked 14 years as a butcher and boner at the Cudahy Packing Plant here before it closed, then took a custodial job at Creighton Preparatory School in 1967.

"You have no choice," he said. "You have to have food for the family."

The family includes three sons, two of them graduates of the University of Nebraska at Omaha, one a graduate of Omaha South High School, who plans to go to college.

A graduate of the Pedagogical Institute at Kharkov, Cherko has continued his studies for the past 12 years at UNO on a part-time basis and now has junior standing.

"It is difficult going to school while working full-time and raising a family," he said.

At the beginning, Cherko will teach one course at Creighton. But some university officials hope they can weld his Russian language instruction into the International Relations Program Creighton conducts at Offutt Air Force Base.

While some men his age look forward to retirement, Cherko is preparing to resume a teaching career interrupted 33 years ago.

Treated Residues Fed To Cut Cost Of Gain

Mead — Stockmen attending a Twilight Beef Day at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Field Laboratory here July 16 will see cattle being fed a nonconventional roughage which may have considerable potential in reducing cost of gain.

With present high grain prices, many cattle producers are using or considering the use of greater amounts of roughage in finishing cattle in the feedlot, UNL animal scientists point out. However, conventional roughages, such as alfalfa and corn silage, may not reduce the cost of gain appreciably.

The non-conventional roughage consists of chemically treated crop residues. Corn plant residue remaining in the field after harvest has little economic value. However, when it is gathered and treated with combinations of sodium and calcium hydroxide, the energy value of the crop residue is increased, university beef researchers report.

During the past two years of UNL tests, lightweight calves fed growing rations containing chemically-treated crop residues have gained 90% as fast and efficiently as calves fed conventional corn silage. At the present price of corn, gains on the treated crop residue are considerably cheaper.

Visitors can participate in two tours of about an hour each, according to Dr. Paul Guyer, Extension livestock specialist. One tour on foot includes the facilities at the animal science headquarters. A vehicle tour will cover the drylot and pasture areas.

Tours will operate beginning at 5 p.m. for early arrivals, Dr. Guyer stated. Those arriving as late as 7 p.m. should be able to complete both tours before dark, he added.

In addition to the treated residues, visitors can view confinement beef facilities, ear a report on results of confinement feeding, view waste management facilities, cows in drylot on various rations and see pasture studies carried out for many years by Dr. E. C. Conard, UNL research agronomist.

Those coming to Beef Day the evening of July 16 via Highway 63 which runs through the Field Lab should turn south at the Beef Research Unit sign and proceed one-half mile. Those traveling Highway 92 should turn south off the highway at the east edge of Mead and continue one-half mile south to Highway 63, then make the turnoff to the beef feedlot complex.

Billie Jean King reaches for a low shot during her match with Francoise Durr.

Borg, Ashe Suffer Losses On Wimbledon Courts

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Bjorn Borg, the young heart throb of tennis, left Wimbledon Monday with a laugh on his lips and a shrug of his shoulders. Borg, 18, whose tennis exploits in the past year projected him onto the cover of American news magazines normally reserved for princes and potentates, joined Arthur Ashe as the first two seeds to be scattered by unranked opponents in the All-England Championships.

Ismael el Shafei of Egypt, a hard-serving, net-rushing demon, beat Borg 6-2, 6-3, 6-1 in the third round. But it was the way young Borg bowed out that caused a slight stir. The blond Scandinavian, idol of the tennis set, quit trying midway through the second set and by the time the third set rolled around he was purposely belting balls into the net, serving double faults and showing little determination.

"Why not?" Bjorn asked later when questioned about his behavior. "Two sets down and 1-5 in the third, what does it matter?"

El Shafei was generous. "Either he gave up or he felt a bit too tired to pull back from two sets down," the Egyptian said. "I was surprised at how easily I won."

Borg, complaining of fatigue since he arrived here, again said he was tired from a long year of campaigning which included making the finals of the World Championship of Tennis in Dallas and winning the Italian and French opens.

His coach, Lennart Bergelin, backed him. "The boy is extremely tired," he said. "He's had a very hard spring."

Borg said he planned to pull out of the doubles—he pulled out of the mixed doubles earlier—and fly immediately to his parents' home outside Stockholm.

"I hope to get about five days' rest, and then I must start working for the Davis Cup," he said.

Roscoe Tanner, a left-hander from Lookout Mountain, Tenn., used an explosive, high-bouncing service for a 7-5, 6-3, 8-9, 6-3 triumph over the 30-year-old Ashe, once America's best, who twice has been a semifinalist but never a winner at Wimbledon.

Thus after a little more than a week, the first of the men's seeds—Borg, No. 5, and Ashe, No. 8—were dispatched to the sidelines while all other singles favorites, men and women, gained the fourth round bracket of 16.

John Newcombe of Australia, Ilie Nastase of Romania, Jimmy Connors of Belleville, Ill., and Stan Smith of Sea Pines, S.C., seeded 1-2-3-4, marched forward resolutely, with only Smith encountering any trouble.

It was the same in the women's division. The favored Billie Jean King, overflowing with adrenalin, refused to be deterred by tricky winds gusting up to 25 miles an hour and stroked past the formidable Francoise Durr of France on-center-court 6-1, 7-5.

"I came here with a lot of adrenalin," said Billie Jean, of Hilton Head, S.C., who is seeking her sixth women's title. "I still have a lot left. I intend to keep it pumping."

The women bent on dethroning the dowager queen of Wimbledon kept pace, but one of them, graceful but unpredictable Evonne Goolagong of Australia, barely made it. Miss Goolagong, champion here in 1971 at the age of 19 and seeded third this year, lost the first set to Aussie Kerry Harris and fell behind 3-4 in the third set with Miss Harris a point from making it 3-5.

It was at this stage that Evonne regained her concentration, pulled out the eighth game and proceeded to run out the set and match, closing with two magnificent passing shots.

Chris Evert, the unflappable miss from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., with a shotgun two-fisted backhand, measured up to her No. 2 seeding by crushing Isabel Fernandez of Colombia in 37 minutes 6-1, 6-1.

Rosemary Casals of San Francisco, No. 4, slammed her way to a 6-3, 6-4 decision over Mima Jausovec of Yugoslavia. Virginia Wade, No. 5, the pride of Britain, erased Betsy Nagelson of St. Petersburg, Fla., 6-3, 6-2. Kerry Melville of Australia, No. 6, beat Kazuko Sawamatsu of Japan 6-2, 6-3. Olga Morozova of the Soviet Union, No. 8, rallied for a 2-6, 6-0, 9-7 victory over Wendy Paish of Australia.

Seventh-seeded Nancy Gunter of San Angelo, Tex., withdrew before the tournament started.

Four other American women gained the fourth round—Patti Hogan of La Jolla, Calif.; Mona Schallau of Iowa City, Iowa, and Tory Fretz and Kris Kemmer, both of Los Angeles. Miss Hogan had to beat another

U.S. player, Ann Kiyomura of San Mateo, Calif., 6-4, 6-2.

Advancing with Smith, Connors and Tanner were Tom Gorman of Seattle, Erik van Dillen of Aptos, Calif., and Dick Stockton of Dallas. Stockton won by default when Britain's Buster Mottram, suffering a throat ailment, withdrew.

The elimination of the attractive, exciting Borg threw a pall over this aged tennis complex.

"I am very tired," the Swede repeated afterward. "Now I go home for a few days' rest with my parents. Then I must play Davis Cup."

He never got into the match with El Shafei, a 26-year-old resident of Cairo who beat Bjorn with a slashing serve and volley game. Borg was able to get only six points off his service in the three sets. Three of the points came on El Shafei's double faults.

Borg quit fighting midway through the second set and then laughed, joked and made no attempt to struggle to the end in the third.

"Two sets down and down 1-5 in the third, what difference does it make?" he asked after it was all over.

Smith, playing in the center court, dropped the first set in a tie-breaker to Jeff Borowiak of Berkeley, Calif., but brought his big game into harness and won 8-9, 6-3, 6-4, 8-6.

Newcombe gunned past Nikki Pilic of Yugoslavia 6-2, 7-5, 7-5. Nastase toyed with Ian Fletcher of Australia 7-5, 6-3, 6-4. Connors had little trouble with Adriano Panatta of Italy 6-2, 7-5, 6-2.

Ashe put up a game but futile battle against Tanner after being down two sets and trailing 4-5 in the third with Tanner serving for the match.

Ashe, hitting all out, forced Tanner into volleying errors with sizzling service returns and broke in the 10th game to make it 5-5. Then the two went serve for serve to an 8-8 tiebreak which Ashe won comfortably, seven points to two.

However, the slender black athlete could not stand up under the power exerted by his younger opponent in the fourth set.

"I made a point using the wind to my advantage," said Tanner; "I was making him reach for every shot."

Wilson Leads Astros To Win Over Braves

By United Press International

Don Wilson doubled home one run and scored another while giving up only five hits Monday night to hit and pitch the Houston Astros to a 3-0 win over the Atlanta Braves.

Wilson's double came in the fourth inning after Tommy Helms doubled with one out to drive in the first run of the game and Wilson then made it 2-0 when he scored on Roger Metzger's single.

The Astros scored their other run in the seventh inning when Bob Watson doubled with two out and was singled home by Lee May.

The win enabled the fourth-place Astros to move within three games of the third place Braves in the National League West.

In the only other game scheduled, Montreal downed Chicago 10-4.

Ken Singleton and Mike Jorgensen drove home two runs apiece to power Montreal over the Cubs before a Canada Day holiday crowd of 17,143.

The Expos took a 2-0 lead in the first inning. Ron Hunt, who went 4-for-4 in the game and 14-for-29 in the six-game series, led off with a single, Larry Lintz sacrificed him to second, tying the club record of 16 sacrifices, and Willie Davis tripled to make the score 1-0. Singleton drove Davis home with a single as Montreal went ahead 2-0.

Montreal scored three runs in the second inning on five straight singles after two were out to take a 5-2 lead. Hunt, Lintz, Willie Davis, Singleton and Jorgensen all singled in succession to score the three runs.

John Ellis and George Hendrick each drove in five runs Monday night to power the Cleveland Indians to a 3-1 and 9-3 doubleheader sweep over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Ellis, making his first start since being sidelined with a broken foot on May 31, drilled a three-run homer in the third inning of the nightcap and drove home two runs with a two-out single in the fifth. He also banged out a pair of singles as a designated hitter in the first game. Hendrick, who is hitting at a .438 clip in his last 14 games with six homers and 20 RBIs, hit a two-run smash in the sixth inning of the opener and hit a three-run blast over the left field fence to cap a four-run seventh inning in the nightcap.

A crowd of 29,808 boosted the Indians' attendance to 480,524, an increase of 114,322 over last season at this date.

In other games Boston beat Baltimore 6-4, Detroit edged New York 4-3, Kansas City blanked Chicago 9-0, and Texas beat Minnesota 6-2.

Cecil Cooper's two-run home run in the first inning sparked Boston over Baltimore, dropping the Orioles 3 1-2 games behind the American League Eastern Division leaders.

Tommy Harper led off Boston's three-run outburst against Doyle Alexander in the first inning with a single, stole second and scored when Cooper homered over the centerfield fence. After Carl Yastrzemski walked, Bernie Carbo doubled to drive home Yastrzemski from first base.

Jim Northrup hit a wrong field home run with two out in the eighth inning to present John Hiller with his 10th victory in relief and lift Detroit over the Yankees.

Northrup's fifth home run of the season was a literal fence scraper, hitting the pipe which tops the screen in left field and bounding into the seats over a vainly leaping Lou Piniella. His second home run in two games dealt the Yankees their fifth consecutive loss, but New York did end a 21-inning scoreless streak in the first inning.

Cookie Rojas went 4-for-5 with four runs batted in to trigger Kansas City to its fifth win in the last six games. Bruce Dal Canton handcuffed Chicago on only five hits.

Rojas singled his first three trips to the plate and then homered in the sixth inning after Fred Patek had walked. Patek drew four walks in five appearances at the plate and hit his third homer on the other occasion.

Hal McRae also homered for the Royals, his 11th of the season, with Rojas on base in the fifth.

Home runs by Jim Sundberg and Toby Harrah plus a four-run ninth inning led the Rangers over Minnesota.

Texas took an early lead when Sundberg led off the third inning by hitting his first major league homer. Minnesota tied the score 1-1 in the fourth on three straight singles by Jim Holt, Eric Soderholm and Glenn Borgmann.

Harrah then put the Rangers ahead to stay by hitting his 10th homer of the season leading off the seventh.

Evansville Tops Omaha

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Evansville hammered four home runs, three in the second inning, to beat Omaha, 6-4, Monday night. All the home runs were solo shots. Three came in the second inning by Reggie Sanders, Bruce Kimm and Chuck Scrivener. Jim Nettles lashed a run-scoring double to right that ended the four-run outburst, and wiped out a 2-0 first-inning Omaha lead.

Omaha Retains Knights Hockey

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — Stressing the upgraded quality of the Central Hockey League this season, Omaha Knights' general manager-coach Fred Creighton announced Monday that the Knights will stay in Omaha.

The announcement at a noon news conference ended speculation that the parent Atlanta Flames of the National Hockey League would transfer their CHL franchise from Omaha to San Antonio, Tex. Recent news stories rumored that rental costs by Ak-Sar-Ben were primary reasons for the site relocation.

"Atlanta was approached by a group from San Antonio, but meetings were never held to discuss their proposal," Creighton said. "We're pleased to return to Omaha and be back in business with Ak-Sar-Ben."

Creighton said he has signed a two-year contract as general manager and coach of the Knights. He has held both positions for the two years Atlanta has operated its CHL franchise in Omaha.

He said the Knights will play a 78-game schedule, an increase from the former 72-game slate. Half will be at Ak-Sar-Ben Coliseum and the other half will be road affairs.

"We'll submit our dates soon and then have a meeting in the third week of July," Creighton said. "Hopefully, we'll have our schedule done by the end of the month."

Creighton said the Knights have signed all of their top draft choices except one, indicating that Omaha will again be competitive under Atlanta management.

He added that the Knights and Ak-Sar-Ben signed a one-year pact. The Knights and Ak-Sar-Ben have signed one-year agreements in each of the last two years.

No details were announced, although the contract is believed to be the same as the two parties signed the previous two seasons.

NFL Owners May Rely On Rookies, Free Agents

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rookies and free agents appear to be the key to whether the National Football League Players Association strike, begun Monday, will be a success or failure.

Union president Bill Curry of the Houston Oilers told a news conference that the association was "surprised and disappointed" that the owners would permit the strike to occur instead of negotiating a new contract that would give the players the freedom they demand.

"As long as they believe they can play the exhibition games with rookies, they don't want to negotiate," said Curry. "I can't see the fans going for that."

A spokesman for the NFL Management Council, bargaining agent for the owners, said in New York that the Council's Executive Committee has been given the power to decide whether or not the exhibition season will be played without the striking players.

"There has been no firm decision on the exhibition season as yet," said the spokesman, "but we are leaning toward pursuing our business and our business includes exhibition games."

The spokesman said there is now way of telling at present how many rookies and free agents will cross picket lines to go to camp, but he emphasized that management depends on the exhibition season for most, if not all, of its profits for the entire campaign.

"This is a point we've been trying to make over and over," he said. "You can't split out the exhibition season. It's all part of the whole financial picture."

Ed Garvey, Players Association executive director, said he did not think the playing of rookies and free agents would affect the strike much but said he thought that if they didn't go to camp, "they could help us be successful earlier."

The players union announced that it had filed unfair labor practice charges against the club owners in Minneapolis, site of its legal counsel, "for their refusal to bargain in good faith and for the efforts to undermine the union."

Garvey said the charges were filed because, among other things, the club owners are "recruiting strike breakers" in an effort to kill the union effort. He referred to the signing of rookies and free agents.

"Coaches are in a peculiar position," he said. "They are being asked to forget about the season and winning a championship and are being told to concentrate on rookies and free agents to break the union."

The union also sent telegrams to rookies who are scheduled to attend the preseason training camps of San Diego, Dallas, Houston and Miami, all of which are scheduled to open this week.

"NFL Players now on strike," the message said. "As an NFL player, we expect you to honor the picket line."

Strongly suggest you remain home until strike is settled."

Responding to the union's suit, John Thompson, executive director of the Management Council, said "The substance of the union's charge is nonsense. The union's definition of meaningful bargaining is total acceptance of its demands."

"The union prefers litigation. No bargaining, along with no fines, no curfew, no discipline and no football. The union says we are trying to bust it. The quickest way to do that would be the union way—to break up the league by our complete acceptance of their 90 demands."

Curry and Garvey charged that the club owners are intimidating the rookies by telling them they will lose their bonuses if they don't report to training camp.

"The owners are exploiting the rookies," said Curry. "Every demand we have made will be to the advantage of these young fellows. The owners will play them and they will think they have made the team but what will happen when the strike is over and the veterans report? They'll be dropped."

Garvey said the association will not ask other unions to cooperate with the players' strike at the training sites but would if attempts to play the exhibition season are made.

Curry repeated that the union's executive committee and other players living in the area will be in San Diego Wednesday to picket the Chargers' training camp, the first of the 26 NFL clubs to open.

The Management Council spokesman said that the picketing may lead to unpleasant confrontations, but added "my impression is that a picket campot block ingress or egress."

In his prepared statement, Curry said: "We regret any ill will that may be created, but we are serious about freedom — and that is something everyone, fan and player alike, can understand. "So, we have been forced to strike—if we go to camp without an agreement, we can forget about freedom."

"The personal freedom we seek is very simple," he said. "We want to choose our employer, and our place of employment. When discipline is called for, we want it be handled through a court of law or an impartial arbitrator, rather than an individual appointed by management as policeman, judge, jury, and appellate court."

"When a dispute with management arises, we want it settled by an impartial arbitrator, not by a commissioner on the management payroll. When we sign a document committing our services, we want it to be a bilateral agreement rather than an arrangement that can be terminated by management without notice or penalty."

"In short, we want the same rights most other folks take for granted," said Curry.

"During a turbulent lifetime, Pete McDonough was accused of bribery, perjury, suborning witnesses, tampering with judges, bootlegging, corrupting and controlling the police department.

"He served eight months for selling five gallons of whiskey to a prohibition agent. (A coarse frameup," said Pete.)

Actor's Service Set

Los Angeles (UPI) — A memorial service for actor Frank Sutton, the brow-beating Sergeant Carter of the "Gomer Pyle" television series, will be held at Hollywood Cemetery, a spokesman said.

A little heel-and-toe through North Beach today. Soaking up the sun. A jog down memory lane.

Spaghetti in the fashion of the charcoal burners is on the menu. Sturdy stuff. Dipped in egg. Laced with bits of Italian ham. Backed by a jug of Chianti.

("She shot him with this," said the homicide inspector. He showed us a .38 caliber Smith and Wesson.)

Bright and sunny days in North Beach. Once sailors were loaded with rum and put aboard ships bound for Shanghai.

The streets have not changed much. The corner bar — a visiting Mafia type was picked up and strangled to death — still serves Picon punch. (It was a classic Godfather job. Somebody in the back seat wound a wire around his neck and tightened it. He had been combing his hair — the comb was still in his hand. They found him in the trunk of the car.)

The tower where an old-time political boss looked down on the town he controlled.

(He lost one election to a greater set of rascals. "When that bunch takes office, every burglar alarm in town will go off automatically," he said.)

Was the spaghetti that pungent then? Was the wine so fragrant? Was the music filled with moonlight and roses?

Above Old St. Maury's clock, gold letters tell the passerby: "Observe the time my son, and fly from evil."

Hipo Goes Way Of The Dodo Bird

Columbus, Ohio (UPI) — Hipo, grandson of the Pony Express, has gone the way of the dinosaur, dodo bird and nickel cigar.

The U.S. Highway Postal Service, which once criss-crossed the nation with mail in 40-foot red, white and blue buses, rolled into extinction on the gloomy Ohio Interstate system early Monday.

The air age and Mr. Zip combined to kill the 33-year-old Hipo, just as it had supplanted its forerunners — the Railway Postal Service and the Pony Express.

The last two buses left Cincinnati and Cleveland late Sunday night, had a brief rendezvous in Columbus and then completed the second leg of their final journeys in relative obscurity.

Air Taxi Services

They are being replaced by private air taxi services, which already tote the mail on a regional basis in most other sections of the country.

The U.S. Postal Service says machines can sort and distribute the mail better than clerks who rode the Hipos.

R. E. Dieckbrader, who drove the first Hipo run in Ohio in 1952, rode into the end of an era from Cincinnati Sunday night.

"Sure, we're sorry to see it go," said Dieckbrader. "It has to go like the Pony Express."

Everything has its last run.

"Change is sort of the name of the game in most any activity," agreed Joseph J. Scanlon, Cincinnati postmaster on hand for the final send off.

30,000 Letters
Harold K. Reichel, logistics manager for the Cincinnati Post Office, said each Cincinnati-Cleveland run carried more than 30,000 letters.

Air delivery should save money, he said, because of new technology.

Management 'Behemoths' Hit

By EDWIN DARBY
(c) Chicago Sun-Times

Maybe we'd all have more money in our pockets and be happier, too, if top business executives would break off their love affair with scientific management.

At least, that's the way Harold L. Christensen, president of Exertia Electronics Inc., sees it.

As far as he's concerned, we'd all be ahead of the game if management would forget about such things as long-range planning, computer management information systems, management by objective and a number of other techniques taught in graduate schools of business management.

A Good Dose

What this country needs, especially if it is to increase production enough to make room for price reductions, is a good dose of let's get today's job done today, Christensen argues. He presents his viewpoint this way:

"A major problem of business today is pure inertia. Things just don't get done. Everybody, from the president on down to the shop foreman, is afraid to make a decision.

"And if a hard-and-fast decision is made, nothing happens half the time. The decision just gets lost. Six weeks later the boss remembers the decision and when he asks he finds out that nothing has been done.

"This conclusion is based on what I've learned, begged, borrowed and stolen in 20 years as a management consultant to corporations, large and small.

"In the corporation today, too many people are concerned with long-range planning, with five-year projections and with updating those projections periodically.

"Behemoth"

"You have fantastically over sophisticated management organizations, so complex that no one individual can cope with the behemoth.

"What is needed is a way to get management, the president on down, to plan one day's work and then, by God, to see that the work gets done.

"To paraphrase Frederick Taylor, the major function of management is to decide what is a fair day's work and then to set up an environment so that a fair day's work is accomplished.

"A principle complaint among all working people is that no one around here knows what he's doing. Most people like to have tasks fairly clearly defined with fairly short-term goals. If management accomplished that, production would increase and people would be far happier in their jobs."

Resigned Position

Rather obviously, Christensen thinks he can be helpful in guiding a company to happier production. Not long ago he resigned his position as president of a management consulting firm, Kearney-Clark Co., and formed Exertia Electronics Inc. to offer companies his thoughts — and a system — for raising productive levels.

The firm's name is a little ambiguous for a management consulting company. The "Exertia" is a coined word out of "inertia" and the electronics is the name because Christensen and his partner, Ken MacDonald, have designed an electronic system that provides immediate reporting on the progress of the day's job — and allows employees right on the production line an immediate means of reporting problems and suggestions.

"Even the so-called on-line computer systems," says Christensen, "deliver reports on management 24 hours after the fact and most of the time management is working with reports a week or month old."

Management Responsible

Which is one of the reasons, Christensen argues, that "95% of the time lost in a corporation is chargeable to management and only 5% to the work force."

In the typical manufacturing setup, Christensen says, only a small part of lost productivity can be charged to employees loitering on the job, chatting with friends, stretching out coffee breaks and lunch periods.

The real problem is that management hasn't told the employee what to do or hasn't provided him with needed materials ("this is not a problem of shortages; it happens even when the warehouse is brimming over").

Employees do consciously and unconsciously slow down and stretch out work, Christensen admits. But he says the root cause is the feeling, communicated by goof-ups, that no one really cares.

Best Cagers Shun Big Eight

Winter-time talk on baseball is called the "hot-stove league," so how about some "cold-stove league" basketball talk this morning?

The all-out recruiting efforts by many colleges to land Moses Malone of Petersburg, Va., points up the importance of a big man to a successful basketball program. If you don't have a good one chances are your team will not contend for the national championship.

And the simple fact is there aren't very many high quality centers year in and year out. During the past season, it is estimated there weren't more than a half-dozen true centers among the leading 40 high school prospects in the nation.

These 40 prospects are the basis of research done annually by The Roanoke Times in Virginia and it's a pretty accurate list based on the pro draft. Of the 17 first round draft picks by the NBA in May 12 had been on previous top 40 lists.

The list is compiled from seven scholastic All-American teams, two recruiting services and a special panel of 15 college coaches from all around the nation.

Among the better centers other than Malone were John Gunn of Memphis, who is going to Memphis State; Rick Robey of New Orleans, who will attend Kentucky; Brett Vroman of Provo, Utah, headed for UCLA; and Steve Malovic of Phoenix, Ariz., who will play for Southern California. All are 6-10 or taller.

Malone, of course, is going to Maryland, which also signed 6-9 forward Chris Patton of Athol Springs, N.Y., and guard Brad Davis of Monaca, Pa., both among the top 40.

Defending NCAA champion North Carolina State got 7-foot Tommy Barker, the junior college player of the year, to replace 7-4 Tommy Burleson, who will play in the NBA next winter.

Not one player among the top 40 signed to play for a Big Eight Conference team.

Catching Up On Sports

Know what Chicago Bear fans are saying today? "I sure hope their picket line is better than their offensive line."

How did spring football practice begin? Many people believe it started at the University of Arkansas in 1910. Amos Alonzo Stagg, the legendary coach at Chicago, visited the Razorbacks' campus that spring and Razorback coach Hugo Bezdek, who had come from Chicago in 1908, held special practice sessions for Stagg to view.

College football coaches are relieved to learn that the World Football League, like the NFL, will not deal with collegians who have college eligibility remaining. It would be nice if basketball had the same rule.

A new golf tournament, called the Tournament Players Championship, will be played Aug. 28-Sept. 1 at the Atlanta Country Club. The winner will be exempt from qualifying for the U.S. Open, the Masters and the PGA Championship, but will be obligated to play in all "designated" tournaments for five years following his victory. The winner also will be exempt from qualifying for four events for 10 years. Quite a reward.

The National Basketball Association is copying major league baseball and letting the fans pick the players... Believe it or not, the official ballot already has been printed, names and all. KC-Omaha has five up for consideration — guards Jimmy Walker and Nate Archibald, center Sam Lacey and forwards Don Kojis and Ron Behagen.

Bolster 80's

Owen's Mobil 80's swamped Golden Learning Center, 21-2, behind twin homers by Mike Ginn and solo shots by Gene Lessman and Roger Douglas, in Lincoln Twilight league action at University Place Monday night.

The 80's connected for 16 hits while Mike Ginn held GLC to only three.

Over the weekend the 80's swept a doubleheader from Beatrice, 5-3, 7-4. Ginn contributed homers in each game to pace the Lincoln team in the twin bill Sunday.

Lack Of Study Funds Stalls Omaha Building

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The proposed $8 million state office building in Omaha has been stalled by the lack of a legislative appropriation to fund a site evaluation and needs study.

Sen. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha Monday informed the Legislative Council's executive board that bond counsel require such a study before they can enter into an agreement to finance the structure.

The cost would be an estimated $80,000, he said.

Agreement Authorized

The 1974 Legislature enacted a bill, LB945, which authorizes the state to enter into an agreement

Wheat Reported Ripening Quickly

By The Associated Press

About 95% of Nebraska's wheat crop has turned, the Division of Agricultural Statistics reported Monday.

Wheat harvest began June 22 and is ahead of normal and well ahead of last year.

Harvested wheat has been low in moisture and test weight is mostly near 60 pounds.

Eastern Nebraska reports wheat in good to excellent condition, while western Nebraska reports crops in mostly good to fair condition.

Counties in extreme southern Nebraska report wheat virtually 100% ripe, in the Panhandle ripeness varies from 20 to 40%. Other areas of the state report wheat from zero to 50% ripe.

Corn condition is mostly good statewide. Holcus spot leaf and other bacterial diseases are continuing to appear in some fields.

Varner Named To 4-H Board

Washington — D. B. (Woody) Varner, president of the University of Nebraska, has been appointed to the board of trustees of the National 4-H Foundation as a representative of the executive committee of the National Association of Land-Grant Colleges and Universities.

The board of the foundation, a private nonprofit educational institution, supporting and complementing the youth work of the Cooperative Extension Service of the State Land-Grant Universities and the U.S. Department of Agriculture, also includes representatives from Extension and private business.

Across Nebraska

Urban Renewal Funds Due North Platte

Washington (UPI) — The North Platte, Neb., Urban Renewal Authority will receive $327,874 more than anticipated from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), members of the Nebraska congressional delegation learned Monday. The office of Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., said the urban renewal authority would receive $641,774 for North Platte's downtown development. The city has received a total of $1,128,446 in federal funds to date. HUD officials said they had reviewed the North Platte project and determined the city had been underfunded.

Lincoln, Omaha Medical Grants OK'd

Kansas City (AP) — Nebraska has received two grants for emergency medical services systems totaling more than $87,000, the regional office of Health, Education and Welfare announced. The Nebraska State Department of Health in Lincoln was given $44,997 and the Omaha-Council Bluffs Metropolitan Area Planning Agency was awarded $42,450.

McCollister: Open Inquiry To Public

Washington (AP) — Rep. John Y. McCollister says the House Judiciary Committee should open its impeachment inquiry to the public. McCollister said in his weekly column to newspapers: "It's time to lift the shroud of secrecy that has surrounded the impeachment inquiry so far. Bringing the facts to the public, instead of allowing certain members to release whatever information they find most damaging to the President's case would give people the chance to decide for themselves whether Congress is doing its job."

Four Receive $450 Scholarships

A recent high school graduate and three University of Nebraska agriculture majors have been awarded $450 scholarships by Moorman Manufacturing Co. They are: Vicki M. Stangle, 16, of Marsland, a senior at Sioux County High School last school year, plans to major in general agriculture at UNL; Robert L. Hendricks of Atkinson; James E. Mager of Wilber; and Louis M. Jacobson of Bridgeport. The latter three are all UNL students.

Omahan Named To Apostle Islands Post

Omaha — Pat H. Miller, staff member of the Midwest Regional office of the National Park Service in Omaha for the past three years, has been named superintendent of the Apostle Islands National Lakeshore on Lake Superior in northern Wisconsin. Miller, 45, a native of Little Rock, Ark., joined the National Park Service as a seasonal employee at Glacier National Park in 1956.

with the City of Omaha, which would use its bonding powers to finance the building.

The bonds could be repaid with state cigarette tax revenue. But no funds were appropriated to lay the groundwork for entering into an agreement, Mahoney said.

In other action, the executive board, chaired by Mahoney, requested the Department of Justice to answer legal questions arising from the State Supreme Court decision invalidating property tax support for the statewide system of technical community colleges.

The system had been financed by state general fund revenue, tuition revenue and a one-mill local property tax levy in each college area.

Special Session?

Mahoney said senators need to know whether a special session of the Legislature will be required to settle the resulting funding problem, or whether corrective action can be delayed until the 1975 Unicameral meets next January.

The key question, Dep. Atty. Gen. Gerald Vitmas said, will be whether the court decision invalidated the state funding revisions of the defective law.

One problem which the Legislature must face, fiscal analyst Eldin Ehrlich noted, is the constitutional fact that the state cannot go into debt, and thus may be required to wipe out local bonded debt incurred by the community colleges.

Ehrlich said his staff is now analyzing the fiscal effects of the court decision.

Vitmas said the Department of Justice will provide an opinion on the legal ramifications of the decision to both Gov. J. James Exon and the executive board. The governor has already submitted his request for such a study.

Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood said he fears the financing structure for natural resource districts — another state system which relies on some local property tax support — could also be tossed out in the courts.

Hearing Scheduled

The board scheduled a hearing for Sept. 4 on a request from Sen. Fred Carstens of Beatrice to look into Nebraska Press Association lobbying activities on probate code legislation.

In lobbying for publication of legal notices, "press pressure" had some influence on the outcome of the probate code battle, Carstens said.

"The press wanted to know 'what's in it for me,'" he said. "It was: 'Give me a buck.'"

At the same time, Carstens said, some newspapers printed "slanted news stories" supporting a probate reform bill which he opposed.

An NPA publication seemed to suggest that some Nebraska publishers "have got certain senators on the string," Carstens told the board.

"What's the reward?" he asked. "Is it extensive press coverage, or do they put other senators on the back pages?"

Carstens will join with the board in conducting the September hearing.

Highway Accidents Kill Two

Two more persons were killed in traffic accidents on Nebraska highways Monday, bringing the state's 1974 road death toll to 165, compared to 192 at the same time last year.

A young man on foot was killed by an automobile on Interstate 80 one mile west of the Waco interchange early Monday morning.

Positive identification was being withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Investigating York County sheriff's officers said a car driven by Mrs. Susan Norder of Bruning struck the man, who apparently was running in the westbound lane of the Interstate. Mrs. Norder was treated for shock at a hospital and released.

The Douglas County sheriff's office said Gerard Everitt, 19, Omaha, was killed early Monday when his car struck the side of a Chicago and North Western freight car during switching operations at a northwest Omaha crossing.

Officers said a witness stopped at the crossing told them Everitt's westbound car did not appear to slow as it approached the crossing, even though warning signals were working. Everitt was alone in the car.

Meanwhile, the State Patrol said Sheriff L. Preston, 16 of Lyons was killed Saturday when her car went off a Burr County road three miles east of Lyons. Officers said the girl apparently lost control of the vehicle.

MISS SCHROEDER . . . receives medallion from Mrs. Eisenhower, right.

Award Presented To Pius Graduate

Susan R. Schroeder of Lincoln received a Presidential Scholar bronze medallion from Mrs. Julie Nixon Eisenhower at a White House Ceremony June 18.

Miss Schroeder is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hal L. Schroeder of 3760 S. 40th St.

She graduated first in her class this May at Pius X High School. She is the recipient of a 1974 Merit Scholarship and 1974 Regents Scholarship.

She was one of 121 Presidential Scholars selected from this year's 3,500 National Merit Scholarship winners.

Students are judged on their academic record, leadership activities and potential for the future.

Unusual Respiratory Disease Is Linked To Death At Gibbon

Gibbon (AP) — An expert from the Center for Disease Control in Georgia has been asked to investigate an unusual respiratory ailment that may have been at least partially responsible for a recent death in this area.

Dr. Paul Stoesz, state director of disease control, said the Georgia expert is expected this week in Gibbon. Twenty-one other persons in the area have been reported ill with some symptoms of the disease, which takes about a month to positively identify.

The State Health Department last week investigated the death. Dr. Stoesz said the situation is unusual enough to merit further study.

The problem is an upper respiratory disease apparently carried by fowls. He said the disease does not appear to be transmissible between humans.

About 10 days ago, a 50-year-old Mexican-national, Ascension Escubedo, who had been working at a Gibbon turkey grower's plant, died.

The county physician, Dr. Gerald Morris, said the official cause of death was pneumonia, possibly brought on by the respiratory disease, tsittacosis.

Dr. Stoesz said the disease does not appear to be the kind that can cause a widespread problem for the general public.

Multitude Of Activities Set For Holmes Lake July 4th

If you want to end this July 4th with a bang, Holmes Park is the place to be.

Somewhere between 20,000 and 30,000 people are expected in the park area to view the annual sky show sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and the Lincoln Parks and Recreation Dept.

While the show won't start until 10 p.m. — when the sky is completely dark — a full day's activities is planned for early park-goers.

Swimming Allowed

For those who want to cool off, public swimming at the north edge of the dam will be possible till 8:30 p.m. And for the young set, a children's block parade will get underway at noon.

Lake activities include canoe races at 2 p.m., with everything from no-paddle sprints to swamping contests. "Firecracker Fiasco" from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. will feature model boats run by Mutineers Radio Controlled Boat Club. And sail boat buffs will have a chance to enter the 2 p.m. Sunfish regional regatta.

For hearty Midwest Canoe Association members, the day holds a race from Oak Lake to Holmes Lake, including an eight-mile portage when the canoes will be carried by the participants.

Bands to Play

On the ground, crowds will be entertained by the VFW Youth Band and the Lincoln Municipal Band while Lincoln Sport Parachute sky divers drop from the sky to keep everyone's spirits up until nightfall.

Because of the anticipated crowds, parking has been planned to expedite movement in and out of the park.

Visitors are asked to enter the park from 70th St. Parking on the north side of the lake will exit west toward 56th and Normal Blvd., so all cars should be pointed in a westerly direction.

There will be no parking on Normal Blvd. from 56th to the park entrance directly east of the dam. Parking on Normal will be permitted through the park area, but a slow exit for these cars is anticipated.

Contributors who make this July 4th celebration possible are: American Legion, Post 3 and Auxiliary, Bankers Life Nebraska, Citizens State Bank, First National Lincoln, Gateway Bank, Harris-Fraley Post 131, Journal-Star Printing Co., KFOR Radio, Kiwanis Club of Lincoln, Lincoln Bank South, Lincoln Independent Insurance Agents, Lincoln Mutual, Lincoln Rotary Club, Lincoln Telephone Co., Lincoln Voiture 103, 40 et 8 Societe, National Bank of Commerce, Robert Flansburg Chapter 7 Disabled American Veterans, Sertoma Club of Lincoln, Veterans of Foreign Wars 3606 and West Gate Bank.

Swim Area Opens

Sail boat enthusiasts and canoers are not the only ones who can now cool themselves in Holmes Lake. A section of the lake along the northwest corner opened to the public for swimming Monday. Parks and Recreation Director Don Smith said the area is roped off and lifeguards are on duty. Smith warned parents and swimmers that the lifeguards will not supervise swimming activities. The swimming area will be open from 9 a.m. to sundown. (Star Photos.)

Man Sought In 4 Incidents

Police were searching Monday evening for a man thought to be involved in two molests and two indecent exposures late Monday afternoon.

Police said the incidents did not occur in one area but were scattered over the city.

The man is described as a white male, in his mid 20's, five-feet seven to five-feet eleven inches tall, weighing 155 to 160 lbs., with blond hair and blue eyes.

He was wearing brown pants and a blue shirt. He was seen driving a tan car with Colorado license plates.

Post Not Sought

Lansing, Mich. (UPI) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford does not want to be president, his half-brother said.

June's Weather Extreme

June will go down in Lincoln's history as a month of extreme weather, chalking up record high temperatures on four days and record lows on three other days.

In addition, the month was extremely dry with only .91 of an inch of rain recorded — 4.08 inches below normal.

Record high readings in Lincoln were set June 19, 20, 21 and 29, with record lows coming June 12, 16 and 17 and a record low equaled June 24.

At Scottsbluff, the National Weather Service office said that area recorded a record dry period from April through June.

Only 2.12 inches of rain fell during the three months, compared with the old dry record of 3.39 inches in 1924.

July started off Monday on a warm note — up to 105 degrees at Grand Island and 104 at both Lincoln and McCook. For Lincoln, the high was only four degrees below the record for the day set in 1933. It was 103 at Beatrice and 102 at both Chadron and Valentine.

Tuesday's Nebraska forecast called for continued hot weather — up 102 in the southeast — with somewhat cooler temperatures due Wednesday. There was a slight chance of scattered thundershowers, according to the National Weather Service.

Termites May Like Concrete

Termites who have perhaps developed a taste for concrete were recently discovered in the basement of the Women's Physical Education Bldg. on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln campus.

The wood-chomping waifs were found in some cardboard boxes in the six-year-old mostly concrete building at 14th and Vine.

Dick Fleming of the University Information Office said that the parasites had been treated and were under control. There was no damage to the building, he added.

County Valuation Up 7% Over '73

Lancaster County's 1974 actual valuation of real estate and personal property increased about 7% over 1973 and has jumped about 60% in the last five years.

The 1974 abstract of assessment, prepared and delivered to the state tax commissioner's office by Assessor Fritz Meyer, shows total actual value of $1,604,353,440 as compared with $1,494,271,065 in 1973 and $1,005,076,870 in 1969.

According to the figures, Lancaster County's assessed valuation is $561,523,704 plus the property of railroads and public utilities which will be assessed by the State Board of Equalization. (Assessed value represents 35% of actual value).

Personal property was up to $24,803,780 from the $20,187,505 in 1973.

Business schedules represented the greatest increase, up about $18 million to $188,182,280 from the $170,196,060 figure for 1973.

Special schedules including utilities and pipelines not assessed by the state board totaled $182,665,415 as compared with $165,793,595 last year.

Rural real estate was also up from $180,023,675 in 1973 to $187,439,895 for 1974.

Urban property, including incorporated villages, showed a $63 million jump to $1,021,262,070.

Listed below are the actual valuations for the various personal and real estate property categories for 1974, 1973 and 1969.

Omaha Fears Tax Loss

Omaha (AP) — Will Iowa's abolition of the sales tax on grocery food hurt Omaha's economy and tax revenue?

Mayor Ed Zorinsky has asked the City Finance Department to keep an eye on tax revenue.

Zorinsky's administrative assistant William Kranda said he understands Council Bluffs grocers are planning a public relations campaign to point out new price difference.

Nebraskan's pay 3½ sales tax on food. Before Monday, Iowans had paid 3%.

For a family that buys $40 worth of groceries a week, the difference is $1.40, $72.80 a year.

Kranda said if the state increases the sales next year to help fund the state aid to education bill passed this year by the legislature, the Iowa-Nebraska food price difference could be as much as 5%. That would be $100 a year to the family with the $40-a-week grocery budget.

Heroin Destroys Veteran's Life

Lansing, Mich. (UPI) — U.S. Navy veteran Craig B. Stutman fought a battle "to purge the gnawing, grasping, debilitating, gut-shattering habit that sucked the precious moments of youth out of him."

He lost.

Two days before his 21st birthday, Stutman died of an apparent overdose of heroin.

Nebraskans Queried By French TV Crew

HOLDREGE, Neb. (AP)—A television crew from Channel 1 in Paris, France visited Holdrege Monday to interview persons about the Watergate case and House Judiciary Committee.

The crew came here from San Francisco after having made film in Flagstaff, Ariz., New Orleans, La., Bakersfield, Calif., New York and Boston. Its next stop was Washington, D. C.

lucky stars for the press we have. There are lots of little Watergates everywhere."

The crew filmed scenes at the farm home of Associate County Judge John Norsworthy at Loomis. He explained the process of impeachment.

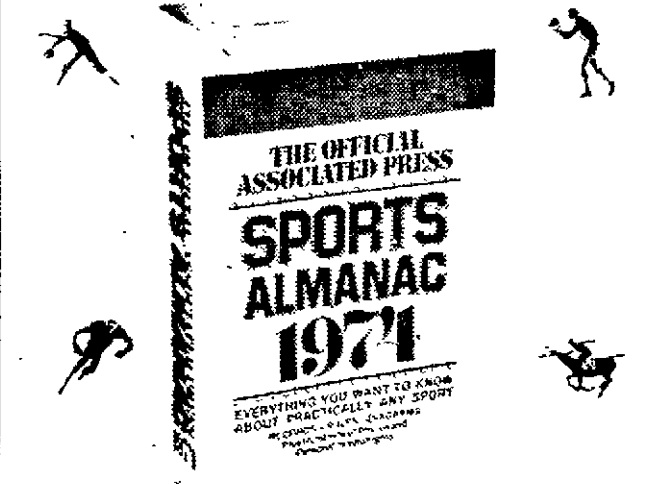

Three members of the television crew could not speak English. The fourth, the director, did speak English.

Kranda said, "Usually, the convenience of shopping nearby outweighs the difference in sales tax. But there's a breaking point."

Omaha City Finance Director George Richardson said the city receives about $3.75 million a year from the tax on food and that he would be against any move to abolish the tax to help Omaha grocers compete.

Richard said there might be a point at which Omahans might cross the river to grocery shop. "But with gasoline at 60 cents a gallon, I don't know if a lot of people would do so now."

Beef Import Lid Said Not Needed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nixon administration farm officials said Monday there is no need for import quotas on beef because cattlemen in Australia and New Zealand are voluntarily holding animals from market.

Meanwhile, consumers can expect meat prices to rise again this summer and then dip next fall as more U. S. cattle and hogs go to market.

Undersecretary of Agriculture J. Phil Campbell said that because some foreign cattle are being held back, about 365 million pounds less beef will be imported in calendar 1974 than anticipated.

Thus, officials said, it will not be necessary for President Nixon to reimpose beef import quotas now. Quotas were suspended two years ago to enable more foreign meat to enter, but cattlemen and many members of Congress have urged Nixon to reimpose the curbs in view of the depressed livestock market.

Campbell told a news conference that it is now estimated 1.210 billion pounds of beef, mostly low-grade meat used for hamburger and other manufactured products—will enter the country this year. Three months ago officials had estimated imports of 1.575 billion pounds.

The new figures and the decision not to reimpose quotas were based in part on a survey made in Australia, New Zealand and Japan by Deputy Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Bell.

Pasture conditions are so good in Australia and New Zealand—which provide 70 to 75 percent of the quota type beef—that cattle producers there are keeping animals on grass rather than selling them at depressed prices, Bell said.

Bell was sent to those countries last month to gather information on the beef supply situation.

Overall, the new import estimate was down 23 percent from previous indications and was 11 percent below actual imports in 1973, officials said.

Imports from Australia now are expected to be about 600 million pounds, down one-third from 940 million indicated earlier. The new level also is 15 percent less than Australia shipped to the U. S. market last year.

New Zealand now may ship 280 million pounds to the United States, down 8 percent from 303 million indicated previously.

Japan, a big market for foreign beef in recent years, had curbed imports recently but now shows signs of reopening its door by year's end, Bell said. There had been some concern that part of the beef destined for Japan might be diverted to U. S. markets.

The department's Outlook and Situation Board said in a related report Monday that consumer demand for red meat will be "relatively strong" this summer as the recent surplus works its way through the marketing pipeline.

"But larger supplies and lower prices are again in prospect for the fall," the report said. "and retail meat prices are expected to remain below year-earlier levels for most of the last half of 1974."

Prices of live cattle dropped to around $35 per 100 pounds last month, the report said. But it added that as the number of cattle moving to market declines this summer, prices "could rise to the mid-$40s" at the farm. Larger sales next fall are expected to cause another price decline then.

"A stronger summer fed-cattle market would ease the financial stress of the cattle-feeding industry, but prices may not rise enough to eliminate losses for many feeders," the report said.

The report said hog producers, who saw prices fall to $25 per 100 pounds or below in early June, can expect prices to climb to the mid-$30s this summer and then drop off seasonally next fall.

The new figures and the decision not to reimpose quotas were based in part on a survey made in Australia, New Zealand and Japan by Deputy Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Bell.

Pasture conditions are so good in Australia and New Zealand—which provide 70 to 75 percent of the quota type beef—that cattle producers there are keeping animals on grass rather than selling them at depressed prices, Bell said.

Stock Market Languishes In Light Trade

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market languished in light trading Monday, despite some not-unfavorable interest rate news.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which remained slightly higher most of the session, closed up 3.83 at 806.24. Losers led gainers however, 782 to 570 among 1,747 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Trading was a slow total of 10.7 million shares on the Big Board, whose broad-based index slumped .04 to 44.86.

Brokers noted a carry-over of Friday's trading, when the Dow closed down 1.25 after severe falls earlier in the week. They said the market was gearing for a technical advance from its "oversold" condition.

"Instead of a Blue Monday, we're getting a Hopeful Monday," said Robert Stovaloff Reynolds Securities.

Investors' principal hope—that interest rates might peak or begin to fall—got some support Monday. First National Bank of Chicago decided to leave its prime rate at 11.80 percent, rather than increase it to the 12.07 percent called for by its formula. The bank said the recent rate run-up might be a "temporary aberration" resulting from tax and six-month borrowings.

Ralph Accompa of Harris, Upham & Co., said investors wanted more than a "one-shot deal," however, and were willing to wait for something more concrete.

The big stock on the Big Board was Damon Corp., which fell by more than 60 percent to 9 1/2, off 15 1/2. Trading in the stock had been halted since Thursday, when the medical instrument company announced lower nine-month earnings and predicted a decline the year's net to between $1.10 and $1.20 a share from last year's $1.41 a share.

Some brokers said the particularly sharp drop might have been caused by mutual-fund sales. The funds owned a reported 20 percent of Damon in mid-June. Damon had had a steady increase in earnings over the past few years.

Other active stocks included Westinghouse Electric, up 1/4 at 13 1/2, and Teledyne, steady at 12 1/2. A 136,300-share block of Teledyne traded at that price.

Mobil Oil, which pleaded innocent to an indictment in New York State charging it with antitrust violations, lost 1 1/2 to 39. Labrore Steel dropped 2 to 7 1/2; Eastmet Corp. said it was calling off a tender offer for 52 percent of Labrore's common.

General Motors lost 3/4 to 48 1/2, and American Telephone fell 1/4 to 46. Alcoa picked up 1/4 to 43 1/2. Other gainers included Du Pont, ahead 2 1/2 to 164 1/2; Procter & Gamble, up 1/2 to 101 1/2; and Delta Airlines, up 1 to 48 1/2.

Bic Pen, ahead 1 1/2 to 10, topped the Amex's most-active list. The company announced price hikes, and a big block of 64,900 shares was traded.

The Amex market-value index was down .37 at 78.73 for the day. The NASDAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market dropped .57 to 75.39.

Bic Pen Corp. Boosts Prices

New York (AP) — Bic Pen Corp. boosted prices on a number of its ball-point pen products, after more than a decade at the old levels.

The company said the medium-point Bic pen was raised to 25 cents from 19 cents and the fine-point pen to 29 cents from 25 cents. The Bic Clic retractable-refillable pen was increased to 22 cents from 19 cents.

President Robert P. Adler also said selective commercial ball pen models will increase proportionately in price, as well as pens made by Bic Pen of Canada Ltd.

TV Output Dips

Tokyo (AP) — Japanese color television production totaled 566,000 units in May, 0.5 percent lower than April, and down 7.8 percent from a year earlier, the Electronics Industry Association said.

Livestock Prices Rise At Omaha

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Monday at the Omaha Stockyards was another good news day as nearly all classes of stock were solidly higher and under strong buyer demand.

Fed steers and heifers were unevenly $2-3 higher. Cows were strong. Steers topped at $44; Holsteins at $37.

Butcher hogs opened slow but finished as much as $1.50-2.50 higher. Sows were up $1-2, some as high as $2.50.

Slaughter lambs were 25-50 cents higher than last Wednesday, the last time trade was large enough to establish a price pattern.

Rate Boost Request For Truckers Denied

The Nebraska Public Service Commission Monday denied a request by truckers hauling general commodities for an emergency rate increase.

Instead, the commission on a 3-0 vote decided to set the matter for a formal hearing later in July.

The general commodity haulers are seeking a 6% rate hike for loads under 5,000 pounds and a 3% hike for loads 5,000 pounds and over. Rates would also be increased for deliveries where the commodities would have to be moved upstairs.

Wage Increase

The truckers said the increase is needed to offset wage increases mandated in union contracts on July 1. Approximately 400 trucking firms are classified as intrastate general commodity haulers.

Commissioner Eric Rasmussen said the truckers presented "little concrete substantiation" to justify an emergency rate increase.

He said the truckers should incorporate a temporary surcharge granted for increases in fuel costs in their rate application.

Rate Hike OK'd

The commission also granted Hull & Smith Horse Vans Inc., of Ashland, an emergency 10% rate hike pending disposition of an application for a 20% rate increase.

James Paine, director of motor transportation, told the commission the firm reported $35,000 in income and $37,000 in expenses on its intrastate business in 1973.

The commission decided more facts were needed before the full increase could be granted on a permanent basis. The firm last had a rate increase approved in 1969.

The firm specializes in hauling racehorses.

Nebraska Joins 17 States In Suit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nebraska is one of 18 states that have filed suit in U. S. District Court here to have a total of $9 billion in impounded water pollution-abatement funds released by the Nixon administration.

The suits were filed Friday, a Nebraska official said. They cover the fiscal years beginning July 1, 1972, and ending June 30, 1975.

Student Honored

Brian Davis was among 2,360 students on the honor roll at Bowling Green State University, Bowling Green, Ohio, for the spring, 1974, quarter. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude E. Davis of 5010 Bellhaven Drive.

Nebraska seeks release of $47 million in federal funds for aid in constructing sewage-treatment plants in the fiscal year that began Monday.

No hearing date has been set on the suits, the official said.

Cooper Nuclear Station Goes Commercial

Columbus (AP) — Nebraska Public Power District's Cooper Nuclear Station at Brownville officially went commercial at 12:01 Monday morning.

The plant was generating approximately 390,000 kilowatts of reliable power, which is 50% of the plant's net capacity, NPPD said.

Officials said the new nuclear plant, which cost $341 million including transmission facilities and the first nuclear fuel loading, will add significantly to the generation capability.

Its new capability of 778,000 kilowatts makes Cooper station the largest nuclear generating plant between the Mississippi River and the West Coast.

Fifty per cent of the station's generation will go to Iowa Power and Light, 12½% to the Lincoln Electric System and the remainder for NPPD's customers.

Omahan Killed In Accident At Rail Yard

Omaha (AP) — Police said Arnold Lane, 24, was killed in Omaha Sunday when he was crushed between two semi-trailers being unloaded from a freight car.

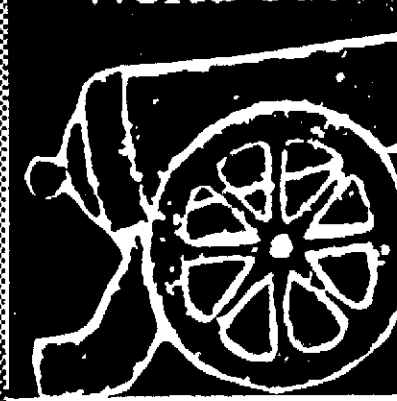

Officers said the accident occurred at the Gibson railroad yard, where Lane was unloading the trailers from a piggyback flatcar.

Another worker was backing one of the trailers and did not see Lane, who was pinned.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, both to the right, then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
